COMMUTERS DENOUNCE WRETCHED SERVICE ON NEW HAVEN RAILROAD

CHASE RUM VESSEL ADRIFT

Has 2,000 Cases Aboard; U. S. Coast Guard Vessels Go to Her Aid

Nantucket, Dec. 13.—A schooner carrying 2,000 cases of liquor was adrift off this island today with only two men aboard, pursued by the U. S. coastguard cutter Acushnet.

The schooner, of foreign registry and manned by a crew who speak no English, was said to be the Silver Fleece, which left Antwerp on October 13.

Cuba was the destination given.

The captain and two men of the vessel, a two-master, came ashore in a small boat at Sankaty last night, with a gallon of alcohol to trade for as much water as they could carry. They had been without fresh water for several days, they indicated. The men also had a suitcase, which was guarded carefully.

The skipper managed to make known his wants, and to say he had 2,000 cases of liquor aboard.

Heavy weather set in during the night, and the three men could not get back to their boat. This morning they found that the schooner had been blown from her anchorage off Sankaty, and was twelve miles off shore.

The Acushnet took up the chase, not so much after a vessel that might be violating the laws, as a first aid to the distressed mariners aboard.

The captain of the schooner gave his name as Notrelet and said he was a native of Martinique. The two members of the crew ashore with him are Belgians and of those aboard one is a Belgian and the other a Frenchman.

The captain had with him the ship's manifest, which showed the cargo of 2,000 cases of alcohol was consigned from W. W. Miller of Antwerp to Cuba on order. The schooner registers 103 tons and is owned in St. Pierre, Miquelon.

A clerical position is now open for a young man working his way through college. Hours, 7 P. M. to 11 P. M. Must be a good penman and accurate. See MR. SMITH, Fourth Floor, 80 Summer street.

FINDS LODGER DEAD 3 DAYS, A SUICIDE

Olaf E. Gisbn, forty years old, was found dead with a bullet wound in his head in a room of a lodging house at No. 19 Bulfinch place. A revolver was beside him. The police believe him a suicide.

He had been dead about three days. His body was discovered by the landlord investigating his non-appearance. He was found stretched on the bed.

WOMEN JABBED BY POISON NEEDLES

Paris, Dec. 13.—Dozens of women daily are being attacked with poisoned needles by monomaniacs. The work of the "needle demons" has been growing for two weeks.

The terror began among Christmas shoppers in big stores, but the needle jabbers are now operating in auto buses, subways and other places.

The police are as mystified as during last Winter's epidemic of dress and fur coat slashing. The "needle" victims usually escape with slight swellings and muscular pains.

HUNTERS FIND MAN HANGING

Two hunters, walking near the City Farm, Peabody, saw a man ahead and they hastened to inquire directions.

As they burst through the brush they shouted, "Hey, old man."

The head slightly turned and then they discovered that the man was dead—hanging from a limb of a tree.

Police could not find any identifying marks. They believe the man was about thirty-five years.

30 DEAD IN CUBAN BOILER BLOWUP

Havana, Dec. 13 (By Associated Press).—Deaths from the boiler explosion which wrecked the Estrella sugar central at Cespedes, Camaguey province, yesterday, may exceed thirty, according to press reports received here today from Camaguey and Cespedes and official reports to the department of government.

WEEPING MOTHER IS DENIED HER CHILD

Lawrence, Dec. 13.—Judge H. R. Dow in Essex County Probate Court today refused to give Mrs. Annie Atkins of Framingham custody of her 7-year-old illegitimate daughter Helen.

The mother told of the birth of the child seven years ago, of her arrest and incarceration at the Sherborn reformatory and of her demand for the child upon her release.

She had placed it in the care of a friend, Mrs. Flora B. White of Andover. While Mrs. Atkins was at Sherborn Mrs. White legally adopted the child and now refuses to give her up.

Judge Dow ruled that Mrs. Atkins was an unfit person for custody of the girl. The mother left the courtroom weeping.

AUTOS KILL 42 IN NOV.; 56 YEAR AGO

November's figures of auto accidents, made public today, tell a mixed story of sorrow and joy.

There were forty-two men, women and children killed last month.

BUT—a year ago, fifty-six were killed and there were then 126,278 less autos on the road. Two years ago, with still fewer autos, the lives of seventy-two were taken.

What Do You Think of N. Y., N. H. & H. Service?

THE Boston American has received many complaints relative to the suburban service of the New York, New Haven & Hartford. Stories of engines unable to make or keep up steam, of broken equipment, of trains hours late in reaching their destinations, have been sent in. Many of these complaints tell of almost unbearable conditions.

The Boston American is making a thorough investigation and will publish the results. If you live on any suburban line of the N. Y., N. H. & H. railroad, you can help in this investigation by letting us know your experience.

Is your service satisfactory! If so, tell us. If not, let us know, citing instances where your community has received bad service.

Phone, write or call at once to Railroad Service Bureau, Boston American.

Trains Running More and More Behind Time, and the Patrons Are Indignant

The latest cold snap has caused indignant complaints against wretched service on the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, particularly on the Woonsocket division, from Boston to Woonsocket and Pascoag, R. I., via West Roxbury and Needham Junction.

Trains are running more and more behind time. The latest, as related by a wrathful Needham Junction commuter, is the case of arriving at Needham Junction two hours and fifteen minutes late in a twelve-mile run.

Needham commuters, who depend on the shuttle train from Needham Junction over to Newton Highlands Station on the Boston & Albany Highland circuit often find that the shuttle train is not running. They

1,400 P. C. Stock Dividend by a Bay State Firm

Whitinsville, Dec. 13.—A stock dividend of 1,400 per cent. was declared today by the Whitin Machine Works, which increases its authorized capitalization from 7000.0 0 to $9,000,000.

The concern, probably the largest of its kind in the country and employing several thousand persons, manufactures cotton, woolen and worsted machinery.

HOLDS UP POLICEMAN AT FATHER'S GRAVE

Bridgeport, Ct., Dec. 13.—While detectives were entering the Holy Rosary Church today to arrest Fusy Santone of Waterbury, wanted on a charge of shooting Michael Spino of Waterbury, the man slipped past the coffin of his father, Michael Santone, and escaped. Soon after he was discovered near the grave of his father by Sergeant Smith. At the point of a revolver Santone compelled the officer to leave, agreeing to meet him after the burial. He failed to keep the appointment and search disclosed him hiding in a nearby house. He was arrested.

EIGHT RESCUED AT FIRES BY DOGS' BARKS

Two faithful dogs saved eight lives at two fires in Greater Boston today.

A third dog tried to save his master from arrest. He bit a policeman.

A fourth dog died by a bullet after terrorizing his neighborhood.

Earl P. Young was asleep in his house in Laconia street, Lexington. Fire started from a wood stove in the cellar and burned up through the floor to the bedroom. Young, sleeping soundly, was awakened by Fritz, his German police dog, jumping on the bed and barking.

Young tossed Fritz and the pet cat out the window, filled his arms with Christmas presents from a drawer, then jumped out the window himself.

By this time the house was in flames. Lexington fire department made a two-mile run. They had to lay a half-mile of hose before they could get streams on. The house was consumed. A barn next door burned but was saved.

Trixie is the collie pup of Anthony Campagna at No. 309 East Seventh street, South Boston. Today Trixie raced through smoke-filled rooms, barking an alarm. She tugged at her master's bed clothes, aroused him, then went to other sleepers.

Campagna found his exit blocked by smoke and fire. His calls brought Patrolman J. P. Keane, who sounded an alarm. Then plunged into the building and found Mrs. Concilia Mundi, an aged woman, crawling through smoke on the third floor. Keane brought her out.

SUMMON DIST. ATTORNEYS TO CONFERENCE

Attorney-General J. Weston Allen announced today an extraordinary conference of all the district attorneys in the State, to be held at the State House next Saturday to discuss means whereby there may be a more complete co-operation of State and Federal authorities with reference to the prohibition laws.

Irked by the recent acquittal of Charles Ponzi, the Attorney-General stated in his letter to the district attorneys that another matter to come up for discussion is the reform of the present jury systems. In his letter Mr. Allen stated:

"The main purpose of the conference is the consideration of the President's message with respect to the enforcement of prohibition laws and the most effective means of co-operation between State and Federal authorities to that end.

"Other matters of importance are to be presented for consideration of the conference so far as time will permit."

Mr. Allen enclosed a schedule for the conference, as follows:

MORNING SESSION.

1. (a) Co-operation between Federal and State authorities for the enforcement of Federal and State prohibition laws.

(b) What additional legislation by the State would more effectively prevent the manufacture, sale and use of intoxicating liquor?

2. A more effective medium by co-operation throughout the Commonwealth, to prevent the use of firearms and automobiles in crime and for the purpose of escaping arrest.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

1. Needed change and improvement in the jury system.

2. Appropriate means to prevent futile appeals in criminal cases.

CORCORAN AND TUFTS SUED IN EXTORTION CASE

Former District Attorneys Nathan A. Tufts and William J. Corcoran of Middlesex County, Harry E. Levenson and Herbert Gordon, Cambridge police captain, were sued today for $15,000 by Frank B. Jenkins, trustee in bankruptcy for the International Service Company, Inc. The suit charges extortion of money from the company.

In the court proceedings against Tufts, before his removal from office, this company figured prominently. Testimony was offered to show the company paid $7,500 to have to make their way on foot or by trolley, as best they may.

JOKE TO TRAINMEN.

The crippled service has apparently become a joke among trainmen themselves. Passengers at Needham Junction were entertained (?) the other morning by hearing one trainman remark to another:

"Well, we were three hours late into Woonsocket last night."

The trainman grinned.

The Boston American would like to hear experiences of passengers who are suffering from the breakdown of service. If passengers will telephone in their troubles, or write in, or call and relate them personally, the American will be glad to print the stories.

ENGINES CANNOT STEAM.

From experiences so far related the chief trouble seems to be with defective engines and inability to make steam in cold weather.

The Woonsocket division, whose passengers make especial complaint now, runs from the South Station through West Roxbury, Needham Junction, Charles River, Dover Medfield Junction, Millis, the Medways and Bellingham Junction to Woonsocket.

At Needham Junction the shuttle line runs—when it runs—over through Needham to Newton Highlands Station.

Needham residents suffer particularly on account of the necessity for change and the extra chance for delay in making connections or trying to make them.

LONG WAY QUICKER.

One morning last week passengers from Needham changed at Needham Junction to connect with the train from Woonsocket for Boston on the main line. The Woonsocket train was an hour late at the Junction.

On account of delays to Woonsocket branch trains at the Junction, Needham commuters say that they prefer to take the longer way around by going to Newton Highlands, and coming in to Boston over the Albany circuit.

The 6:37 train for Needham Junction, on a recent evening, did not pull out of the South Station until 7 o'clock, no engine being attached until that time. When Needham passengers debarked at Needham Junction they report, there was no shuttle train to take them over to Needham. The passenger relating this said in wrathful conclusion:

FORCED TO WALK.

"How did I get over to Needham from the Junction? I walked."

Passengers quote conductors as admitting that the trouble is due mainly to inability of engines to get up sufficient steam and that the delays will probably be even worse if heavy snow falls.

Many trains for Newton Highlands bear a number of passengers planning to connect at the Highlands with a shuttle train for Needham. When they arrive at the Highlands they are informed: "No shuttle train. They have to make the rest of the trip by trolley.

EVEN GATES ARE ROTTEN.

A Needham man said today:

"Even the gates on some of the passenger cars come off in your hand if you lock hold of a gate on the platform of a car at Needham station. The whole gate fetched away from the woodwork of the car."

One of the most aggravating instances of late trains came when Needham commuters went to the South Station Monday night for the 5:22. The train did not pull out till 7 o'clock. It arrived at 8:15, two hours and fifteen minutes late.

To make matters worse, the train was stopped some rods before it arrived at Needham Junction Station. It could not or did not get underway to the station, so passengers got out and walked, slipping down an icy bank and running the risk of falling and possible injuries.

WHAT BECAME OF TRAIN?

Another recent instance reported by passengers from Needham was this: Their train arrived at West Roxbury 20 minutes late. The engineer, fireman and a brakeman, armed with hammers and cold chisels, knocked some pieces of metal from the under part of the engine. Whatever relief this afforded was insufficient. A local from Dedham was waiting in the rear.

Finally the engine on the Dedham train was detached, was coupled to the rear of the train from Needham and pushed the latter into Boston. What became of the train from Dedham, left behind with no engine, the passengers of the first train did not know.

"FIXED" ENGINE WITH ROPE.

On another occasion, when a train was held up at West Roxbury, the engineer went into the first coach, commandeered the bell cord, departed with it back to his engine and, after a few minutes, got his train going. Passengers wondered just what part of the engine he had tied up with the bell cord in order to finish his run to Boston.

These all are instances related by wrathful passengers. Plans are being made to hold protest meetings, so that the many complaints can be formulated and effort made to see if the service cannot be improved.

READS BIBLE TO GET "SLAYER" TO CONFESS

Chicago, Dec. 13 (By International News Service).—Mrs. Kate Mitchell Trostell, 32-year-old widow, who mysteriously disappeared on Dec. 1, was murdered, the police declared today, although they could not find the body. They arrested Arthur Foster, 32, the young woman's suitor.

Passages from the Bible were read at police headquarters today by Dr. Edna Schafer during a dramatic attempt to break Foster's silence.

The eyes of the women present were wet with tears. Foster was unmoved.

Foster's arrest was brought about by the finding of red stains on the running board of his touring car. Mrs. Trostell, night manager of a Western Union branch office, was a sweetheart of Foster prior to her marriage to Trostell. After Trostell's death Foster renewed his attentions.

A button from the missing woman's skirt was found in the seat of Foster's car, as was a pencil similar to the kind Mrs. Trostell carried. In Foster's room was found a suit of clothes and an overcoat upon which there were stains. In his trunk the police found several cartridges, but no trace of a weapon.

LEWENBERG IS NEW REGISTER OF PROBATE

Solomon Lewenberg, for years a stormy petrel in Republican politics, was today appointed Register of Probate for Suffolk County by Governor Cox.

Lewenberg succeeds Arthur W. Dolan, appointed Judge of Probate to succeed Judge Robert Grant, retired. The salary is $6,500.

Lewenberg came into prominence in 1916 when appointed a member of the old Gas and Electric Light Commission by Governor McCall.

He became a thorn in the side of the public service corporations and, finally, following a stormy clash between Lewenberg and Attorney Everett W. Burdett, counsel for the lighting interests, Burdett retired from the hearing, saying he would never appear before the Commission again while Lewenberg was a member.

Lewenberg was ousted with numerous other friends of Governor McCall when Calvin Coolidge became Governor avoid criminal prosecution with which it was threatened.

The men named in the suit were accused of extortion from James S. Athens, president of the company, George H. Grant, vice-president, and Charles P. Kornak, a director.

Testimony showed that Captain Gordon visited the offices of the company and asked about methods of doing business, saying the district-attorney was investigating.

President Athens testified that a Lynn clairvoyant advised him to employ Levenson and that he did so. He said he went to see Tufts, with Levenson, and Tufts told him the company was violating the banking law.

Attorney Corcoran was then also employed and $7,500 agreed upon for services. Corcoran succeeded in postponing the trial and, in the Fall, the case was dropped.

Corcoran collected the money in three instalments, testimony brought out.

The International Service Company dealt in house lots. It went into bankruptcy on May 20. Investigation revealed that poor people in Boston and other cities were induced to invest their savings in the firm.

GEN. ALLEN TO JOIN IN GERMAN TOUR

Berlin, Dec. 13.—A dispatch from Frankfort to Der Tag, says the visit of the Earl of Derby, British war minister, and other allied officials to Cologne tomorrow will be to determine the line of action of British and American forces in the occupied territory this Winter in view of the measures France is believed likely to adopt against Germany.

Cologne, Dec. 13.—Major-General Henry T. Allen has been invited to join several allied war ministers and military chiefs who are planning to visit occupied Germany tomorrow.

PLAN TO SEIZE RUHR DENIED BY POINCARE

Paris, Dec. 13 (By the Associated Press).—Premier Poincare, at the resumption of the parliamentary debate on the French foreign policy, will announce that the government retains the right to use a free hand in seizing security for the German debt.

"I never said I thought of occupying the Ruhr, or taking such security," the Premier told questioners. "I do not know exactly what we would choose. If we did we should be very careful not to cry it from the housetops.

"This, however, is certain: Whatever action we decide on will not involve the calling up of a single man. What is no less certain is that the time for threats without acts has passed. We have fully resolved to act, even alone, and even if before January 15 the Reparations Commission pronounces in favor of a fresh moratorium for Germany.

"In any case we cannot take any step before January 15. That is why it is wrong to speak of postponement."

Patrolman Arthur W. Tiernan of East Dedham Street Station was bitten by Rudolph Patterson's big St. Bernard when three officers made a raid on a house in Hingham street, South End.

Tiernan started to arrest Patterson. The dog seized Tiernan by one leg and held on until Patterson was released. Patterson was held on a charge of having made a liquor sale. Tiernan, who was not seriously hurt, was treated at City Hospital.

Patrolman William O'Brien of Reading shot and killed a collie which had bitten several other dogs, a cow and a kitten and terrorized children. Dr. C. H. Blayden, who examined the dog's body, said the collie had been suffering from rabies. A dog muzzling order in Reading is expected.

WOMAN MAYOR SAYS BOSTON IS TOO 'WET'

"Boston is as conservative now as when I was here as a child. Where was the progressive spirit of Boston yesterday that it did not assert itself and elect a woman to the City Council?"

Thus did Dr. Amy Kaukonen, youngest woman Mayor in the United States, flay Boston for its conservatism. She is at the Copley Plaza.

"Out in Fairport, Ohio, where I try to hold the reins of government, they will be surprised to learn that the 'Hub of the Universe' has not taken the opportunity to have at least one woman in the city government."

Then, smiling, she continued: "Woman bring so much to public life, you know. They are conscientious, they have intuition, they have all the finer, tender sensibilities that make them give more thought to morals than to the mere making of money.

"Especially, we women are determined that prohibition shall be enforced. Unlike Boston, the police of Fairport are under the direction of the Mayor and many assistants and myself see to it that 'blind tigers' are one kind of animal that is not in the Fairport Zoo or anywhere in Fairport.

"I have given orders to the chief of police to prosecute as he would any criminal the man or woman who breaks the dry law. When I go back to the West I shall tell them that Boston seems 'just a little bit wet' and that they have not got ready to face the fact that woman is a factor in government and should be given a part whenever capable. I shall also tell them, however, that Boston, despite its horrid conservatism, is still as quaint and lovable as when I romped here as a child."

Dr. Kaukonen is an attractive blonde in her early thirties. Although born in a small Ohio town she spent the greater portion of her girlhood in Boston and is considered a "Boston girl" by her municipality of the West.

After leaving high school she took up the study of medicine and is now a practicing physician as well as chief executive of Fairport.

Woman's 20-Minute Talk Fails to Convict Man

Mrs. Sarah Robinson, widow, talked for twenty minutes against John McCallum in Chelsea Court today only to have Judge Bowser acquit him of a charge of malicious destruction of property at her home, No. 54 Walnut street, Chelsea.

According to her, McCallum broke porcelain sinks, ripped out plumbing, piled ashes on her wooden floor in the cellar until it gave way and otherwise caused her loss.

Judge Bowser, wearied by the harangue finally said: "It is now 11 o'clock. You have talked for fifteen minutes. If you think you can finish in five more minutes, go ahead. If not sit down."

URGE HARDING CALL PARLEY ON AIRCRAFT

Washington, Dec. 13.—An enlisted personnel during the fiscal year be pending next July of 86,000, the same as at present, is provided for in the navy budget carrying a total of $293,890,535, or approximately half a million dollars less than last year, reported to the House today.

A request that President Harding seek to broaden the scope of the naval limitation agreement, so as to include a limitation on construction of smaller types of war vessels and aircraft, is included in the appropriation bill.

The President would be asked to open negotiations on the subject with Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan. In its report the committee pointed out that the Arms Conference did not limit the number or types of smaller war vessels, and added that information had reached Congress "that already large programs are planned of vessels up to the maximum size permitted under the agreement and that new and larger types of subsurface craft have begun to put in an appearance."

No information was immediately available as to the attitude of the President and his administration advisers toward the proposal, which was proposed by Representative Kelley, Republican, Michigan, head of the sub-committee that prepared the bill.

John Wanamaker
Russia's Vast Army
Which Was Guiltier?
Great Wine Crop

—By Arthur Brisbane—

(Copyright, 1922, Star Co.)

JOHN WANAMAKER, who died yesterday, takes his place among the great merchants and good Americans that have developed the United States. A great merchant is one that devotes his life to distribution of the earth's products, thus employing labor, developing and improving manufactures, and rendering to the public great and necessary service.

BESIDES BEING a great merchant, Mr. Wanamaker served this country efficiently as Postmaster-General, and did as much as any man, with few words, to make the public understand the stumbling blocks in the way of public service. He said there were "four reasons" for not establishing the parcels post, and those four reasons were the four great express companies of the United States using their influence against it.

MR. WANAMAKER'S success was based on intelligence, energy and CONSIDERATION for others. Some years ago this writer called at the Wanamaker establishment in New York to see Mr. Ogden, local manager. It was a very hot July day. Mr. Ogden was not there, but Mr. Wanamaker was perspiring over the details of the gigantic business. "I am here in this weather," said he, "because this is the only way I can persuade Ogden to take a vacation. If I didn't come, he wouldn't leave. So I must come and work in July."

Mr. Wanamaker then was more than seventy years old. That example is recommended to other employers. Consider your men and they will consider you, appreciate them and they will appreciate you.

THE ALLIES have talked, without result, and adjourned to January 2. Both Italy and England refuse to join France in seeking to make Germany pay "by military measures." This gives a breathing spell, during which German money will fall lower and settlement will become more difficult.

Meanwhile a German engineer describes the army of Russia as he has seen it. Lenin could summon 6,000,000 upon "to go marching through Europe." No wonder, as Lloyd George writes, the French are worried about what Germany may do next. What will happen if the Germans supply the necessary thousands of officers and military skill and join that Russian army of 6,000,000 in an attack upon France and Western Europe?

The last time the Russian army started out it was led by drunken Grand Dukes supplied with cannon and guns that had no ammunition. That wouldn't happen under German leadership.

ENGLAND IS excited about a murder case that ends in a sentence of hanging for a man and a woman. The man, Bywaters, was "in love" with the woman, Mrs. Thompson. She wrote to him concerning her husband:

"He has the right, by law, to all that you have the right to by nature and by love."

That arrangement did not suit the lady. She suggested to Bywaters that he murder her husband. He did it. Now both are to be hanged.

English juries do not allow

SAW 'PLATONIC WIFE' AND CHEF IN KITCHEN

ACCUSE MRS. GEROULD IN TESTIMONY OF INN EMPLOYE

Specific accusation of improper conduct was made against Mrs. Marjorie Gerould, the "platonic bride," in the suit of her husband, Edwin Gerould, for divorce, before Judge Lummus in Salem Court today.

The witness in the case was John J. Gannon, a worker of the Sunbeam Inn, the roadhouse near Lynn of which Gerould is manager.

Watering the lawn one day, Gannon testified, he passed the window of the kitchen. Peering in, absentmindedly, he testified, his attention was attracted by Mrs. Gerould and Henri Pinchenot, the French chef of the inn.

They were in a compromising position, Gannon said.

On another occasion he had seen them together in the tea room. The chef wore a bathrobe then, Gannon said. Many other times he had seen them together.

NEW YORK SCENE.

The scene shifts to New York.

Into the lobby of the Hotel Commodore walked a handsome woman.

She went to the cigar counter. She purchased a package of cigars. She went to the elevator. She returned to a room. Was it her room? Whose room. Was it?

Charles A. Morgan, a private detective, said the woman was Mrs. Gerould.

Morgan had followed Mrs. Gerould to New York.

The handsome wife of Mr. Gerould had been followed also by William F. Payne, another investigator.

CALLS FOR "JOHN."

Mr. Payne ingratiated himself into the good will of the hotel telephone operator. Thus he was enabled to listen in on the calls Mrs. Gerould is said to have gotten from a man who was termed "John."

Several times John called up and asked for an appointment. Mrs. Gerould declined several times to meet him, the investigator testified. Finally she capitulated. The following day she met him in the lobby.

During the meeting three young women appeared. All five went out. Mrs. Gerould didn't return until midnight, Payne said. When she did return, one of the girls was with her.

The girl spent the night with Mrs. Gerould.

Who was the girl?

Who was the man?

BECAME A BLONDE

Mrs. Gerould, when she arrived in New York on this particular occasion was rather a striking brunette. One day Mr. Payne followed her. She went to a hair dressing shop. She entered the place with raven locks. She came out a blonde.

"Would you say henna colored?" the witness was asked.

"I should say bleached blonde," the witness said.

In Boston also Mrs. Gerould was shadowed by young Mr. Morgan. He followed her to the Copley-Plaza Hotel, he testified, on one occasion, when she met a man who was intoxicated. They got into a taxi.

"I jumped into another taxi," said Morgan. "I followed them." But she got away by jumping from her taxi into another one.

While Henri, the French chef, cooked savory bon mots of an ardent flavor, Gerould, the husband, languished at the Sunbeam Inn, which for him contained no sunbeams of love. For he was a husband in name only.

His platonic wife, according to testimony of Gerould's mother, Mrs. A. E. Little of Lynn, was the seasoning of the amorous stew the French chef found himself in.

The piece de resistance, Mrs. Little testified, was Mrs. Gerould's fancy to auto ride with M. Pinchenot three or four times a day, while her husband contemplated the day his wife had promised to love, honor and obey—with mental reservations.

Hugging and petting episodes, and scenes in the magnificently furnished Gerould bungalow, to which Mrs. Gerould and Pinchenot were the actors, were described by Mrs. Little, a Japanese butler and a carpenter, Amos Walker.

Mrs. Gerould remained in Swampscott with her husband only one day before running away, according to Mrs. Little's story. This was in July, 1921. Later, she returned and remained until September 18.

From her son, Mrs. Little said she learned of Mrs. Gerould's reluctance to assume the wifely relations with her husband.

Ambrose L. Walker of No. 224 Massachusetts avenue, Boston, a carpenter, testified that he had been employed by the Littles for years.

"I saw Pinchenot and Marjorie together in the kitchen. They were making candy and were very jovial," he testified.

JAPS REFUSE TO STAY IN SHANTUNG

Tokio, Dec. 13 (By the Associated Press).—Japan, in the process of relinquishing Kiaochow leasehold in Shantung to China, expects to complete its withdrawal tomorrow. The Japanese cabinet, resenting charges from Chinese sources that Japanese troops were encouraging Chinese bandits at Tsingtao, has decided not to remain in control of that port until December 20, as China requested.

DE PALMA RELEASED TO QUIT SPEEDING

Madera, Cal., Dec. 13.—Ralph de Palma, automobile racer and Madera County jail inmate during the past nine days, was ordered released today by the Madera Parole Board, which cut twenty-four hours from his ten-day speeders' term for good behavior. "Speeding? I'm through as far as the highways are concerned," I. Palma said. "No one was in any danger from me, but there cannot be any kinds of laws, I guess."

Husband-Slayer Insane

BRUNEN SLAYER SAYS HE KILLED TO PLEASE MOHR

Mount Holly, N. J., Dec. 12.—Charles M. Powell, confessed slayer of "Honest" John T. Brunen, circus owner, took the stand again today and was subjected to a cross-examination by counsel for defence.

Powell, who said he shot the showman at the instigation of Harry C. Mohr and his sister, Mrs. Doris Brunen, was questioned as to whether he had been promised immunity for his confession.

He was repeatedly asked the reason for his killing Brunen. The slayer's invariable answer was that he committed the crime to please Mohr.

Six convicts, two of them convicted murderers, will be used as witnesses for the defence in an attempt to prove that Powell is insane.

ELECT YOUNG CHELSEA GIRL TO SCHOOL POST

Miss Rowena Kirle, of Chelsea, who was elected to the Chelsea school committee, is the youngest woman ever to hold that office. She is twenty-one years old, and yesterday was the first time she voted. She defeated Bernard Michelson, her competitor, by 335 votes. Miss Kirle is a living denial of the bromide about beauty and brains. She graduated from Boston University Law School at an age too tender to take the bar exams, which she will take soon. She stumped the entire ward, and the success of her campaign speeches is reflected in her election.

CLEMENCEAU TO COME BACK AS "GHOST"

New York, Dec. 13. (By the Associated Press)—His speaking message ended, Georges Clemenceau, wartime Premier of France, sailed home on the Paris at 11 o'clock today, declaring he would return again, "but only as a ghost."

The aged statesman appeared in fine health and rare good humor as he took his place on the upper deck to watch New York vanish behind him.

Just before the Paris cast off, he kissed Mrs Charles Dana Gibson on both cheeks, laughingly enjoining her not to "dare to tell her husband." Mr. and Mrs. Gibson were Clemenceau's hosts during his stay here.

Others at the pier to see him off included Jules J. Jusserand, French Ambassador, and Mrs. Jusserand, Gaston Hebert, French Consul; Colonel E. M. House, who arranged the Tiger's American tour, and Bernard M. Baruch.

SLATTERY EXALTS BROOKS AS FRIEND

Bishop Charles L. Slattery, upon the anniversary of the birthday of Phillips Brooks at the noon service today at St. Paul's Cathedral, spoke of the genius for friendship which marked the life of this great teacher.

"He used the ministry not to exalt himself, but to bring light and happiness into the lives of others," the new bishop said. "He still lives and the inspiration of life with its sympathy move us to follow in his path."

KIDNAPED 6 TIMES IN YEAR

Constance Southworth Carried Back and Forth Between 2 States by Parents

Six-year-old Constance Elizabeth Southworth of Everett is the champion kidnaped child of Greater Boston, judging by testimony of her father, Merton K. Southworth, a railway mail clerk, in divorce session at East Cambridge today.

The Southworths seek divorce in a double suit, each accusing the other of cruel and abusive treatment.

Little Constance, the father said, was kidnaped six times in one year, the father taking her from the mother down in Connecticut and the mother kidnaping her back.

Southworth is his wife's second husband. She has two boys by her former marriage. The elder is a youth of 23, the younger 10. Constance is child of the Southworth marriage.

THREATENED WITH KNIFE

Constant nagging was one of Southworth's charges when he took the stand as opening witness. He said he had an "old retainer," a man of whom he was very fond, to look after the place. He said his wife called the retainer a "dirty old man."

When Southworth remonstrated his wife, as he testified, seized Southworth by the neck with both hands, shook him and exclaimed: "I hate you, I loathe you, I despise you."

The stepsons always sided with their mother, he asserted. Once the elder stepson "stood by and egged his mother on" while she threatened him with the carving knife, saying: "I hate you, ——— ———— you, I wish you would leave me!"

On another occasion, according to Southworth, his wife berated him. The elder stepson hit his stepfather on the nose, so that blood flowed, while Mrs. Southworth pinned his arms to his side. The elder stepson continued punching him. Meanwhile the ten-year-old stepson was hitting Southworth over the head with a carpet sweeper.

KIDNAPED SIX TIMES.

Southworth said he ordered the elder step-son out of the house. Then Southworth departed on a week's railway trip. When he returned the elder step-son was back home, as usual.

Mrs. Southworth promised her husband, he declared, that her sailor brother would give him a licking; also she called her husband a "skunk" and a "hypocrite" and threatened him with a hatchet.

February, 1921, the husband went on, he returned home to find wife, stepsons, daughter and furniture gone. He located the family later in Connecticut.

It was then, he said, he kidnaped the little girl back to Everett, the mother kidnaped her back to Connecticut and this shuttling of Constance back and forth went on six times.

MRS. MARY G. BRADY.

Lowell woman who killed her husband as he was drawing his pay last September has been adjudged insane and ordered committed to the Danvers Insane Asylum.

SHOE OPERATORS KEEP OLD SCALE

Haverhill, Dec. 13.—The machine operators of the Shoe Workers' Protective Union voted today to grant to factories of the Haverhill Shoe Manufacturers' Association a continuance of the prices and conditions prevailing under the present working agreement until July 1, 1923. The existing agreement was to have expired on December 31. Present prices and conditions will prevail until a new agreement is reached.

The sixty-five factories not included in the manufacturers' association will be covered by a special agreement, and will be guaranteed protection by the union until the present price lists expire under the plan.

Officials of the manufacturers' association said today that they had not been apprised of the machine operators' action and declined to state whether or not the proposition would be approved.

JAIL MILLIONAIRE BOOTLEGGER

New York, Dec. 13.—Edward Donegan, Brooklyn bootlegger, who claims to have made $1,000,000 selling liquor, was taken today to the Atlanta Federal penitentiary to begin serving ten years for conspiracy and grand larceny. He was fined $65,000. Donegan was convicted of plotting to steal government documents that would have helped him in his bootlegging.

WOMAN IS SENT TO ASYLUM

Lowell Wife Acquitted in Murder of Mate Because of Mental Condition

Mrs. Mary G. Brady of Lowell, who shot and killed her husband, Frederick W. Brady, in Lowell City Hall, where he was employed, was found not guilty of murder by reason of insanity by a jury in Cambridge Superior Court today.

She was sent to the State Hospital for the Insane at Danvers.

The verdict was ordered after Dr. Frederick R. Cady, an alienist, had testified that the woman was insane when she fired the fatal shots.

Brady was shot on September 29 as he stepped from the cashier's window in Lowell City Hall after receiving his pay. A few days before Mrs. Brady had returned from a hospital after a severe illness.

When taken to the police station after the shooting Mrs. Brady told the police that "It was God's will. I am glad that I have done it. My children and I will be happy now." She declared that her husband had beaten her during their married life.

Two small children of the couple have been cared for by relatives since the tragedy.

TAG DAY ARRANGED FOR SATURDAY TO AID CHRISTMAS FUND

GIRLS TO SELL RED HEARTS ON BOSTON STREETS

For the purpose of enriching the Boston American Christmas Basket Fund, which is to feed nearly 50,000 destitute men, women and children in Greater Boston at Christmas, a tag day has been arranged for next Saturday. The entire net proceeds for the sale of tags will be used to buy food for needy families in their homes.

Many young women have promised to give their services for whole or part of the day, realizing that whatever they collect will help to feed impoverished families. Students of business, singing, dramatic, athletic and dancing schools have volunteered their services to make the tag day a success.

Among those who have already offered their services are Mrs. R. D. Foster of Dorchester, Miss Edna May Dowd, Miss Ruth Hicks of Fells and Tarrant Comptometer School, Mrs. O. D. Williams of Quincy, Mrs. Mallene Pascaglis of Somerville, Mrs. Doris Black of Boston, Miss Catherine Curry of Roxbury, Miss Marion Marshall of Somerville and Mrs. A. Wright of Roxbury.

HEART-SHAPED TAGS.

Red heart-shaped tags will be sold by the young women. On the front of these tags is the words: "If your heart beats right, help the Boston American Basket Fund." On the other side is a sketch of a young girl with a Christmas Basket of food and the words, "Free Dinners."

Frances Hislop

Tag day headquarters will be located on the first floor of the Rice Building at Nos. 6 and 8 High street, just off Summer street and within a stone's throw of South Station. These premises will be used through the courtesy of C. W. Whittier & Brother, real estate brokers with offices in the Shawmut Bank Building. F. A. Ewart of this firm said it gave the officials of the company great pleasure to be able to assist the American's fund in this manner.

Girls who are in a position to give their services for even an hour or two on Saturday in selling tags are requested to get in touch with Mrs. Flora Roff at Main 5180 as she will have charge of the tag day activities.

DOG SHOW TO AID.

An all-breed dog show, under the direction of the Women's Charity Dog Club, which was organized last year for the special purpose of aiding the American's Christmas fund, will be held some evening next week. The date will be announced later through the American. The organizers of the club are Mrs. W. T. Clarke of South Boston, proprietor of the Y. D. Kennels; Mrs. E. B. Wass, proprietor of Artcraft Star Kennels; Mrs. F. A. Dullen, owner of Dullen's Kennels, and Mrs. Mildred Greene of Revere, owner of White Pepper Kennels. Other persons who will aid in making the show a success are Mrs. Louis Lech tenhein of Fairlawn Kennels, Mrs. Genevieve Jones and Mrs. Tellis.

Hundreds of tickets have been sold sold for the entertainment and dance to be conducted in the Strand ballroom tomorrow night, under the auspices of the girls employed in the Boston American and Boston Sunday Advertiser offices. Bobby Sawyer's cracker-jack colored orchestra will furnish the music for dancing. This aggregation has just finished an engagement at the Hotel Westminster and is now playing four nights a week at the Strand ballroom. Members of the orchestra are contributing their services without cost for the occasion and the ballroom is being given gratis by Charles A. Winchester, the popular proprietor of the Strand.

Mrs. O. D. Williams of Quincy reports that she expects one of the biggest gatherings ever assembled in Alpha Hall, Quincy, at her entertainment and dance next Friday evening.

AT CHARITY CONCERT.

The entertainment which she has arranged is one of the best ever planned for any party on the South Shore. Among the special guests who will be in attendance will be Mayor-elect Gustave A. Bates of Quincy.

As an added feature Mrs. Williams has arranged for the appearance of Miss Doreen Glover of Quincy, who will dance a jazz number on her toes. Frances Hunter Hislop, who has an unusually fine soprano voice, has also been added.

In addition to singing at Mrs. Williams' party, Miss Hislop will be featured at the charity concert and ball in Copley-Plaza Hotel next Monday evening under the auspices of Miss Helen M. Hoche and Madame Lyman School for Stage Children. Many music lovers are expected to be present at the Copley-Plaza to hear Nicolai Oulukanoff, Russian baritone, who was formerly with the Boston Opera Company. Others who will be featured at the ball include Muriel Woodward of Brookline, and Laura Gault of Maynard, talented æsthetic dancers.

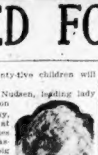
Laura Gault

A. H. Glick, of the Boston Flower Exchange, has donated an eighteen foot Christmas tree for use in the pantomime "The Christmas Spirit," in which seventy-five children will appear.



Evelyn Nudsen

Miss Evelyn Nudsen, leading lady of the Boston Stock Company, now playing at the St. James Theatre, will assist in the big vaudeville show in that theatre next Sunday evening, in behalf of the American's fund. Free use of the theatre has been contributed by Mr. George A. Giles, managing director of the Boston Stock Company.

All the acts will be supplied without cost through the office of Herbert A. Spears, widely known booking agent. The regular St. James Theatre Orchestra will participate in the entertainment. Tickets for the show are now on sale at the Boston American office, No. 80 Summer street, and Boston Sunday Advertiser office in the Little Building, at 25, 50 and 75 cents. A few box seats may be obtained at $1.

Miss Helen M. Roche, who is conducting the radio concert which is to be broadcasted from the Shepard Stores tomorrow evening, has completed her program. The additional artists include the Columbia Trio in a novelty musical act, in which piano, saxophone, trombone, melophone and cornet are used; Marion Kay, comedienne, in a character sketch; Olga Chpocicki, violin soloist, and Eileen V. Driscoll, who will sing "Berceuse," from "Jocelyn," with violin obligato by Alice Gustafson.

The managers of the Allhambra and Casino Motion Picture Theatres Quincy, are aiding the Fund.

The sum of $77.55 was contributed to the fund by persons who attended the banquet and dance of the Oriental Guild A. M. O. B., at Berkeley Hall by Dorothy Marshall, No. 908 Morton street, Dorchester, after she entertained in solo dances. Miss Marshall was attractively attired in a costume made by Miss Dorothy Solomon, an aunt.

sentiment to carry them away in such cases. It is likely, however, that higher authorities will decide to hang the man and send the woman to jail for life. Which would you call more guilty, the man, Bywaters, that broke into another family, or the wife that welcomed him there?

That's an interesting matter for discussion around "the evening lamp."

FRANCE HAS the greatest yield of good wines since 1875, almost two thousand million gallons. The difficulty will be to find a market. The strange part is that although wines will be much cheaper the French will not drink any more on that account. So it is with Italians.

At one time when wine sold for two or three cents a full quart, Italian farmers mixed it with the oats of horses, believing it gave them strength. But the cheap wine caused no drunkenness.

That's one difference between natural wines and whiskey. The whiskey drinker is never satisfied. The wine drinker, as is proved by entire nations of temperate men that have drunk wine for thousands of years, is not impelled to excess.

MRS. BORAM, who lives at Tiltonville, O., has a practical mind. The sheriff took her husband on the bootlegging charge. She said: "I need him to take care of my five children." He said: "That's no business of mine." Then she sent the five children to the sheriff and disappeared. Immediately the sheriff released the husband and said: "Go take care of those five children." When a man suddenly has five children handed to him, he realizes as he never did before what that kind of a job amounts to.

CLEMENCEAU TELLS American farmers that this country must come closer to Europe in order not to block prosperity. Farmers are too near the big war not to know what big war MEANS. In that war prosperity went to Wall Street, steel makers, ship builders, flying machine crafters, that spent a thousand millions without delivering any fighting flying machines. As for the farmer, the government limited his price of wheat, decided at the beginning of the war that the farmer should supply the patriotism by keeping down his prices while the others did the grafting.

The farmer knows that if this country is tied up with Europe's finances, he will pay the bill, and that when war comes again OTHERS will make the money. You can't interest the American farmer very much in war.

LINER DRIVEN AGROUND ON LONG ISLAND

The English steamer Manchester Spinner was driven ashore on Long Island by a fifty mile an hour gale that swept the Atlantic seaboard today.

In spite of two anchors the vessel ran aground with such force that two tugs were unable to dislodge her at flood tide and a second attempt with a fleet of tugs will be made tonight.

The ship cleared yesterday for Portland to load a cargo of grain for England, but on account of the wind anchored off quarantine last night.

There are about thirty-five men aboard, but they are not believed to be in any danger.

MOVIE WORLD NEWS AND GOSSIP

Douglas Fairbanks in "Robin Hood," the monster picturization of the celebrated twelfth century romance, is on its way to Boston from California.

The production will have its premiere performance here next Monday night and to insure its safe arrival at the Park Theatre, over a distance of 3,000 miles, the producers have taken out a policy for $50,000 against loss, accident or delay.

Particular interest on the part of school and college students as well as teachers and professors in English history is evident following the announcement of the appearance here of the Robin Hood visualization. For eight centuries the subject has entertained the world via the stage, the printed page and in music form.

A special musical setting for this presentation at the Park has been arranged by Joseph Littau, noted New York composer.

THRILLS PROMISED.

What are described as the most thrilling and picturesque serial scenes ever staged for a motion picture are those that have been made during the past week in the filming of "The Go Getter," a Cosmopolitan picturization of a Peter B. Kyne story. The "shooting" of these scenes took place at Curtis Aviation Field, Mineola, and other parts of Long Island and in the International Studios, Jackson avenue, the Bronx.

This particular part of the picture entails nothing but night scenes, the most spectacular of which is said to be one showing a race between an aeroplane and a speeding express train.

T. Roy Barnes and Seena Owen are featured in "The Go Getter." The cast also includes Tom Lewis, Frederick Stanley, John Corr, William J. Sorello, Jane Jennings and William Norris.

Studio Notes

James Kirkwood, who plays the part of a minister in "The Fool" at the Times Square Theatre, New York, also acts the role of an unfrocked clergyman in "The Sin Flood," Goldwyn's picture version of Henning Berger's "Syndafloden," recently released.

MAUDE ADAMS

Popular actress who refuses to affirm or deny a report that she was secretly married abroad. She arrived today on liner Celtic under an assumed name.

WINS AMERICAN DOLL IN 30 MINUTES

Ten Boston American subscriptions in less than half an hour!

That is the record of pretty eight-year-old Anna Eaton, daughter of Mrs. Margaret Eaton of No. 106 Brook street, Brookline. It certainly is some mark for other little girls and you — boys — to shoot at.

Today little Anna is thinking of something else besides subscriptions, for she is devoting all her attention to a magnificent Manima doll, which this newspaper presented her for securing ten new subscriptions.

The Boston American is proud of Anna's record. So too, is her mother. And the big doll comes in mighty handy just now. This is the Christmas season and Anna surely believes in Santa Claus.

What other little girl or boy wishes one of the dolls for a Christmas present? There must be many.

All you do is secure ten subscriptions. It's easy. Anna said it was. Try it.

MAUDE ADAMS DODGES STORY OF MARRIAGE

New York, Dec. 13 (By International News Service).—A report that Miss Maude Adams, the noted actress, who arrived here two days ago from London under the name of Mrs. A. A. Kiskadden, was married, met with neither affirmation nor denial from her today.

"I would rather not say anything," was her reply to all questions.

Miss Adams arrived on the White Star Liner Celtic. Her identity was not discovered until the vessel docked and she was subjected to questioning by immigration officials.

"I used the name Kiskadden because it was my father's name," she replied to a question as to why she had assumed that name.

CHARGE CONSPIRACY IN DRUG CASE TRIAL

Anthony Ferino was held in $10,000 bail by Federal Judge James M. Morton, Jr., today after pleading not guilty to a secret Federal indictment charging Ferino and six others with attempting to influence a witness and conspiracy to intimidate.

The case against Ferino is the outcome of the trial of Ferino and Charles Solomon on charges of violating the narcotic act. They were found not guilty, but Mrs. Rose Shaffer, a witness, was arrested on perjury charges. Subsequently Ferino, Solomon, Harry Garb, Lauren Marks, Sam Marks, Sadie Godhart and a man named Cohen were indicted.

'EUROPE TREADS OLD PATHS OF BLOOD'—BORAH

By SENATOR W. E. BORAH.
(Written Expressly for Universal Service.
(Commenting on Lloyd George's Article in the Hearst Papers.)

Washington, Dec. 13.—I would not assume to place the responsibility for present conditions in Europe as between France and England. The task would be invidious and its execution impossible. Both governments, both nations, are yielding to the same practices and policies and striving for the same ends which brought on the world war.

Oil, coal, exploitation of helpless peoples, seizing territory occupied by foreign peoples, secret understandings, huge armaments, imperialism, suspicion nursed and nurtured by recrimination of leading men, hate, war—same old bloody path, same inevitable goal.

If those interested will survey the history of Europe from the Moroccan affair to the deluge of 1914, they will find that which is going on, the things which are being done, the practices which prevail and the policies which are urged are to completely a reproduction of that period that they would be simply emulsification and tedious imitation if the finality were not to be so tragic.

The foreign policies of the governments engaged in the war are not founded on the principles of humanity. The moving, compelling motive, as of old, is not that of protecting and serving humanity or justice, but of seizing territory, crushing peoples and finnessing natural resources.

And what both France and England ask of the United States is assistance in carrying out these policies which they are not pronouncing.

"EVELYN NESBIT" ORDERS ARE SEIZED IN $50,000 NARCOTIC RAID

LETTERS FROM MOVIE STAR ALSO FOUND BY POLICE

New York, Dec. 13.—In a Greenwich Village raid in which $50,000 worth of drugs were seized, detectives of Dr. Carlton Simons' narcotic division discovered letters from two well known theatrical figures.

The raid is believed to have revealed one of the main sources of drug supply to addicts on the stage.

Some of the letters were signed by a well-known motion picture actor of Hollywood, Cal.

Others were dated from Atlantic City and signed "E. Nesbit."

FROM ATLANTIC CITY.

In one of the Atlantic City letters, the address of the correspondent was given as "Palais Royal Cafe, Kentucky avenue and Boardwalk."

It was said that Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, former wife of Harry K. Thaw, has been dancing in a boardwalk cabaret.

The raid was made by Detectives Moog, Masson and Higgins, on the apartment of William Williams, forty-two years old, a coffee blender, of No. 249 West Eleventh street.

The letters signed "Evelyn Nesbitt" and "E. Nesbitt," written from Atlantic City, were about twenty in number.

According to Dr. Simons, one of those letters purported to speak of automobile supplies. In this letter, he said, "Spark plugs for car," in the jargon of drug addicts, refers to narcotics, and "spark plugs" to hypodermic needles.

PARTS FOR CAR.

A letter dated October 11, 1923, read:

"Dear Mr. W.:

"Next time you want to communicate with me, you must address me care of Palais Royal Cafe, Kentucky avenue and Boardwalk. Am now located there and also, just on general principles, when you come again to Atlantic City it is always well to bring fresh parts for the car.

"Let me know when you are coming, as you generally arrive so late in the day that it's not possible to get to a bank. But if I know you are coming, I can prepare for you.

"Sincerely,

"E. NESBIT."

FOR PROMPT SERVICE.

Another letter addressed to "Dear Mr. Williams" follows:

"Have been in bed with the worst cold I ever had in my life, and all my affai s have been at a standstill. However am sending you a cheque immediately.

"Does the market is okay for you and that if I invest in the stocks your advice will be okay. When I see you—will tell you exactly how I hope to better my stocks and investments. Many thanks, for such dandy, prompt service.

"Believe me—I appreciate same and will prove my gratitude when I see you.

"Sincerely,

"Evelyn Nesbit."

"Dear Mr. W." began another letter.

"P. O. was closed last eve. when I went out (after 6), so I had to wait until this a. m. Here's an order for one hundred. Will send balance soon. You can depend on it. Very truly, "E. Nesbit."

ORDERED "SPIKES."

Other letters read:

"Atlantic City, Oct. 27.—Dear Mr. W.: Your letter received. Yes—I would be interested in German, but not Swiss, stock. The—M—German and please bring me several dozen various sizes, Lues—as other kind of spike. The others don't last and are very bad—must be Luer—very truly, E. Nesbit."

"Atlantic City, Oct. 19.—Dear Mr. Williams: No word from you lately. Am in need of a new order, but not Swiss. Don't like it at all—prefer German—the next time please bring one dozen Luer spikes. No other make is any good—in fact, there is one tremendous in quality. Much prefer Luer make. Small size but not too small, and only M. How soon can you send or bring that order? As ever, very truly, E. Nesbit, care Palais Royal Cafe, B. W., 8 Kentucky avenue.

"P. S.—If you cannot come down send package to Abdul Kader (Mrs.), 128 South Kentucky avenue—and inside put my name. Always use candy box. E. N."

PRAISES THE SERVICE.

"Hotel Rio Grande, New York Avenue and Beach, Atlantic City, Aug. 9. Dear Mr. W.: No answer from you. I am worried for fear something has happened. I hope you are well. So I am addressing this to your downtown office. Why have I never heard from you regarding the last oil stock—the Mexican investment. Please answer soon as you receive this letter and relieve my anxiety. Sincerely, E. Nesbit.

"P. S.—Also send me a statement. I have no idea how much is due.

"P. S.—Also it is useless for me to send any money unless I hear from you. E. N."

This letter was addressed to No. 220 Canal street, according to Dr. Simon.

According to Dr. Simon, another card read: "Thank you for dandy prompt service. When you come to Atlantic City I will prove my gratitude to you."

Another was represented as reading: "My Dear Mr. Williams: Post-office was closed. Enclosed order for a hundred. Will send balance soon. When you come to Atlantic City bring me some of the M stuff along."

Still another card, the police said, read: "When you come to Atlantic City, bring some spare parts for the car. These last spark plugs break at the least pressure."

Plot to Halt "Comeback," Says Evelyn Nesbit

Atlantic City, N. J., Dec. 13.—Evelyn Nesbit Thaw today denied she used narcotics, spoke the language of "dope" peddlers or was acquainted with any one in New York engaged in selling drugs.

That was her repudiation of the authorship of letters signed with her name and seized in a $50,000 drug raid in New York. The letters, she declared, were one of many attempts to retard her "comeback" via the cabaret route.

The dancer aide efforts had been made previously to "plant" narcotics about her living quarters.

"Every effort to 'frame' me has been made," she declared. "This is another. The letters were forged.

"Last Summer a man and a woman tried to plant narcotics in my hotel room. Both were proven addicts and driven out of the city. I have done nothing of which I am ashamed."

BIRTHS IN FRANCE DECREASE 25,000

Paris, Dec. 13.—Vital statistics for the first six months of this year show a decrease of 25,000 births and an increase of 39,000 deaths over the corresponding period in 1921. The excess of births over deaths, which last year was 73,000, is only 9,000 this year.

Births and deaths from January to July of this year numbered 306,000 and 297,000, respectively. In 1921, there were 421,000 births and 348,000 deaths.

$162,779,795 IN TAXES PAID IN STATE IN 1922

The cities and towns of this State levied in taxes the enormous sum of $162,779,795 for the fiscal year which ended November 30, according to the figures tabulated today by State Tax Commissioner Henry F. Long.

How the burden of taxation has seriously increased is shown by the fact that the levy was $10,000,000 greater than in 1921, which was $10,000,000 greater than in 1920, which was $25,000,000 greater than in 1919.

In the past year, the State itself collected in taxes $40,558,949. This yield came from the following taxes: Income, $13,805,269; business corporations, $11,969,574; inheritance, $6,805,548; public service corporations, $3,357,307; insurance, $2,137,140; savings banks, $2,011,270; national banks, $1,913,405; stock transfers, $126,752.

The total value of all the assessed property in the State was $5,711,623,312, an increase of about $200,000,000 over the preceding year.

Figures show there are 91,357 horses in the State, the lowest number since 1865. The largest number, in 1917, was 200,800. The number of dwelling houses in the State on April 1 was 626,829, an increase of 6,000 over the preceding year.

LABOR IN FIGHT TO IMPEACH DAUGHERTY

Washington, Dec. 13.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, told the House Judiciary Committee today that the executive committee of the federation had authorized the employment of counsel to assist Representative Keller of Minnesota, in prosecuting impeachment proceedings against Attorney-General Daugherty.

Notice was served on the House Judiciary Committee by Jackson H. Ralston, counsel for Representative Keller, that he would insist on his "rights" before the committee even if he had to carry his fight to the House of Representatives.

Mr. Gompers' statement was made in the course of cross-examination by Paul Howard, of Cleveland, personal counsel for Daugherty. He emphatically denied he had first suggested the impeachment proceedings.

"Does Mr. Ralston represent the American Federation of Labor?" asked Mr. Howland.

"He does," was the reply.

"When was he first employed?"

"The Executive Council met here beginning on November 14—and during our week's session, the question of the impeachment resolution was discussed, particularly in two phases."

"I don't care about the phases; I want the time," interrupted Mr. Howland.

"I am trying to fix the date as best I can," retorted Mr. Gompers.

"By direction of the Executive committee, I communicated with Mr. Ralston and asked him to represent the American Federation of Labor in two phases."

XMAS SALE

NO SHORTAGE OR HIGH PRICES HERE

OPEN EVERY EVENING TILL XMAS

According to the Business rumors, there is a big shortage of pianos in Boston, and, of course, that means that prices are high and will be higher before Christmas. But there will be no higher prices on this floor. I am keeping prices down and refuse to profiteer, shortage or no shortage. My 1922 Christmas Piano Exhibition and Sale surpasses in magnitude, beauty and bargains all my previous displays and offerings.

My Big Xmas Cut Price Piano Sale is now on—into it I have put my entire stock of New Pianos marked down to figures that have given me my national reputation for low price piano selling. I am severely criticized for selling pianos at such ridiculously low prices. However, I fail to see how anyone is going to suffer from my low prices but myself, and I intend to continue my policy of big sales and small profits. I have often told the public that I preferred to sell 100 pianos at $1 apiece profit than to sell one piano at $100 profit. I will try to show you how to save $100 on the purchase on any make piano you desire.

WIFE "LIVED IN HELL" IGNORED BY CORLISS AND HUSBAND

ADVISED TO OUST GIRL

Mrs. Eugene Brewster Writes Friend Her Story of Domestic Triangle

By Cosmopolitan News Service.

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 13.—"I lived in Hell. A tortured mind and a pain-racked soul," wrote Mrs. Eugene Brewster to a San Francisco friend in telling the story of the triangle which has led the wealthy New York motion picture magazine publisher to attempt to obtain a divorce that he may marry Miss Corliss Palmer, winner of a beauty contest in one of his magazines.

The letter in part read:

"Hereafter, he informed me, I was to be his wife in name only and Palmer to be his constant companion. I was relegated and invited to keep to my own apartment near the baby while he and Palmer shut themselves up in his apartments every night, where they made out they had work to do. They played games together, went back and forth to town in his car daily, she occupying our apartment in town connecting with Eugene's private office.

WIFE IGNORED.

"They ignored me as though I did not exist and was not at all included in their plans.

"I lived in Hell! A tortured mind and a pain-racked soul. My head seemed on fire, my nerves shattered, until at times my very faculties seemed numb, as though my brain could not act. The thoughts that have rushed through my head at night in bed worked me up to such a tension that I would find myself clinching my nails into the palms of my hands, and then I would realize what was going on in his apartments and would let go and try to relax again and then, in spite of my effort to restrain them, the tears would be pouring over my pillow. It was agonizing to bear.

"Along toward the latter part of [illegible] things got to be so bad that I was advised to put Palmer out and [illegible] her taking up her abode elsewhere. I not only would I appeal to condone her offence by her remaining here, but the strain was more than any human being ought to bear. So I arranged to get her out of the house and even then he insisted upon having her remain here. Then I moved out with the baby and nurse so that she would have to take her departure, and in a few days Eugene came to get me and bring me home.

GIRL FROM NOWHERE.

"Imagine the nerve of a girl from nowhere to come into a beautiful society home and being offered every means of making a decent success, stooping so low as to try to angle for my husband behind my back in order to get out of him clothes, money, backing for a career, etc. But even so, he has amazed all of his friends and associates by falling for such a creature.

"Apart from other things it is quite a shock to me regarding my former admiration for his former good taste.

Smart Set Playing Bridge Today in Aid of Rheims Charity, Says Betty Alden

By BETTY ALDEN.

EVERY member of the smart set who's interested in the American temporary children's hospital at Rheims is playing bridge today. Throughout Boston and other cities of New England—under the leadership of Miss Edith Bangs of Beacon street—parties have been organized for this day. The money raised in this way, it is hoped, will go far toward carrying on the work of the temporary hospital in Rheims.

The size of the party and the amount to be charged for each table is left to the individual option, the money to be forwarded to Miss Bangs at No. 355 Beacon street. Working on the committee with Miss Bangs are such well-known matrons as Mrs. William A. L. Baxley, Mrs. M. Graeme Haughton, Mrs. George H. Lyman, Mrs. E. Preble Motley, Mrs. Gerald A. Bramwell, Mrs. George H. Sargent and Mrs. Henry H. Fay.

Last year, it will be recalled, a similar day was set aside for the same benefit, a very tidy little sum being raised thereby.

MRS. REGINALD BOARDMAN of Marlboro street and Manchester-by-the-Sea has been spending a few days in New York at the Ritz-Carlton.

WHENEVER the curtain rises upon any presentation of the Harvard Dramatic Club, there's usually a fashionable audience on hand and a no-end distinguished patroness list to support it.

On Thursday evening of this week comes the second performance of Leonid Andreyev's "The Life of Man" at Brattle Hall, Cambridge. On Friday comes a matinee performance at the Hollis Street Theatre, and on Monday another evening presentation at Brattle Hall.

The Harvard Dramatic Club is the first group to produce before the American public this play of Andreyev, who, as everyone knows, is also the author of "He Who Gets Slapped."

Mrs. Manfred Bowditch, the former Margaret Pearmain, is only one of the many smart matrons who have lent their names to these presentations. A few of the others include Mesdames Walter C. Baylies, I. Tucker Burr, Godfrey L. Cabot, Philip P. Chase, Louis Chauvenet, Eben S. Draper, Samuel Eliot, Allan Forbes, James S. Hooper, John L. Saltonstall, Francis B. Sears, William H. Thayer and Edwin S. Webster.

ARTHUR E. CHILDS of Bay State road recently sailed for Europe on board the White Star liner Homeric, on which G. Herbert Wendeler of Boston was also a passenger.

ONE of the most devoted students at the Boston Museum School of Fine Arts for several seasons has been Miss Marcia Davis, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thornton Davis of Brookline. Last month Miss Davis sailed for abroad under the chaperonage of Mr. and Mrs. Houston A. Thomas to spend the Winter in Italy with Mrs. Charles Ranlet of Boston and her daughter, Miss Carolyn Ranlet. Some time ago society learned that Miss Ranlet's engagement to Yates Satterlee of the Fenway had been broken.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas, with whom Miss Davis sailed for Italy, are the parents-in-law of Miss Davis' brother, John Farwell Anderson Davis, whose marriage to Marjorie Abbott Thomas took place last July in Hamilton. It is there that the Thomases usually spend their Summers—they have a big place there known as "The Locusts"—though the Winters are usually passed in travels abroad.

Young Mr. and Mrs. Davis, by the way, are spending the Winter in Brookline at No. 199 Pleasant street.

MR. AND MRS. VICTOR MAPES, formerly of New York, are settled for the season at No. 58 Chestnut street, to be near their son, James Jay Mapes, sophomore at Harvard.

RUSSIANS GIVE 'FAUST' AT THE OPERA HOUSE

Interest was sufficiently high to see what kind of a production the Russian Opera Company would give of "Faust" at the Boston Opera House as compared with the way they had been putting their own things on, to draw rather a large audience. They came, many of them out of curiosity, but they left quite satisfied with what they had heard and seen.

The outstanding figure of the opera, considered either from a standpoint of singing or acting, was that of Mephistopheles sung by Nikolai Karinsh. His role was very well sung and acted better, far better, than many that we have seen. He was, to put it briefly, more sinister, more clever and far more human in his interpretation of the role than one might have expected.

Marguerite was sung by Marie Mashir, who has done some very good work in the foregoing week. Her voice at no time sounded better than it did last night—nor as well.

Faust was sung by Ivan Dneproff and he proved, for the most part, capable of handling the role successfully.

BRITISH VOTE MILLIONS FOR JOBLESS

London, Dec. 13 (By Associated Press).—A supplementary estimate for one million pounds sterling for the relief of unemployment was agreed to by the House of Commons early today toward the close of a sixteen-hour session prolonged by the tactics of the Labor party.

The Laborites had agreed yesterday to try to keep the House in session until it is prorogued Friday night in an effort to force the government to take further steps toward the alleviation of unemployment. But a motion for closure, made by Stanley Baldwin, Chancellor of the Exchequer, at 6.30 o'clock this morning, was carried.

The motion was hailed with cries of "shame," "gag," and "scandal," while epithets of a more personal character were hurled at the occupants of the treasury bench.

WATSON, BRICKLEY AND HEALEY WIN SEATS IN CITY COUNCIL

BOGAN IS AMONG VICTORS

Result of the Election Leaves Mayor Curley in Control of City Hall

City Councillor James A. "Jerry" Watson was swept back into office at the head of the entire councilmanic ticket in an election that brought defeat to the Good Government Association and at least a partial triumph for Mayor James M. Curley.

The other councillors elected were Captain David J. Brickley, now president of the council, and William C. Healey.

Healey was the only one of the three candidates endorsed by the "Good-Goos" to win a seat. His place was closely contested by the other two "Good-Goos" endorsees, Francis D. Harrigan and Miss Florence H. Luscomb.

A very light vote was cast, only about 25 per cent. of the city's registered voters going to the polls.

Both Watson and Brickley were endorsed by the Curley machine, and the council will now contain five Curleyites and four Good Government men.

Watson led the ticket with 25,377 votes. Brickley polled 23,267; Healey, 19,335; Harrigan, 18,792, and Miss Luscomb, 18,682.

Dr. Frederick L. Bogan was re-elected to the School Committee and William G. O'Hare was elected with him. This election could be considered neither a victory nor a defeat for the Mayor, as he had endorsed Dr. Bogan, the victor, and Dr. William McGauley, one of the men defeated. The Public School Association recommended Bogan, a successful candidate, and Roger F. Hooper, who was beaten.

Martin Lomasney, incidentally, had little luck in the election, as Harrigan, his favorite candidate, was beaten. This was Harrigan's second political defeat in recent months. In September he lost the Democratic nomination for register of deeds to William T. A. Fitzgerald.

Much interest centred about the campaigns of the two women candidates, Miss Luscomb and Miss Annie E. Molloy. Miss Luscomb, who carried the Good Government endorsement, ran well, but Miss Molloy, president of the Boston Telephone Operators' Union, was a disappointment, polling only 8,305 votes for eighth place on the ticket.

By a peculiar freak of the returns, Harrigan and Miss Luscomb, two of the "Goo-Goo" candidates, were tied at 11,959 votes apiece when 180 precincts had been counted. The two remained close together right down to the finish.

CURLEY IN CONTROL.

The election leaves Mayor Curley in control of the council to all intents and purposes, although a majority of six is needed for the passage of loan orders, while the Mayor has but five "regulars."

The referendum measure calling for the installation of an accounting system in city finances by a State passed easily, 27,713 to 14,629. So did the measure calling for licensing the sale of non-intoxicating beverages, by a vote of 34,715 for to 18,945 against.

HAINES LOSES; BEAN BEATS GOLDEN

Mayor Benjamin F. Haines of Medford, who has held office continuously for the past eight years, and who was considered an almost certain choice to succeed himself, was beaten in the Medford city election by Representative Richard D. Coolidge.

This was the Medford Mayor's second defeat of the Fall. He ran unsuccessfully in the September primaries for the Republican nomination for District Attorney of Middlesex County.

Complete returns showed Coolidge had defeated Mayor Haines by 1,350 votes. The vote was Coolidge, 7,392; Haines, 5,542.

WOMEN ARE DEFEATED.

Aldermen-at-large elected were: James H. Jordan, Edward H. Larkin, Kenneth C. Kimball, Harry M. McNear, Charles A. Coughlin, Chester J. Power and Fred R. Wood.

Ward aldermen elected were: Cornelius B. Harrington, George W. McCarthy, Archibald A. Ashley, Walter F. Harrington, Henry P. Vante Bogart, Arthur L. Youngman, Earl C. Blake, Michael E. O'Brien, Joseph J. Fitzpatrick, Frank I. Fuller, Jr., Elmer C. Drown, Albert W. Hathaway, Edward M. Harkins and James W. North.

All the women candidates for school committee were defeated. The successful candidates were: Dr. W. Barrett, John C. Harris, James Learmouth and Ira B. J. Ellsworth.

UPSET IN ATTLEBORO.

Another upset came in Attleboro. Mayor Phillip E. Brady went down to a surprising defeat there, running third in a field of four. The contest was won by George A. Sweeney, who had a plurality of some 400 votes.

Still another surprise came in Woburn, where Mayor Bernard J. Golden, who had served four consecutive terms, was beaten for re-election by Stephen S. Bean, who had a plurality of nearly a 1,000 votes. Ward aldermen elected were: Patrick Kelley, Michael H. Winn, Michael H. Curran, Alfred A. Peterson, John O'Donnell, James B. Flaws and James McKee.

MALDEN RE-ELECTS.

Mayor John V. Kimball of Malden was the one Mayor who came through the election right side up. He defeated Former Alderman Frank E. Simpson, 3,647 to 2,471. Less than 50 per cent. of the registered voters went to the polls.

Proponents of the jitney busses scored a victory in electing a majority in favor of licensing the busses both to the board of aldermen and to the common council.

In Melrose Dr. Paul Provandie won the mayoralty contest, leading a field of five with 2,717 votes. His closest opponent was former Alderman Albert M. Tibbetts, with 1,878. Other candidates, in the order named, were Edward F. Cassell, Carl E. Shumway and Leslie F. Keene.

Dr. Lester D. Chisholm was elected Mayor of Everett, defeating Howard F. Furness by 5,586 to 3,894. Dr. Wilbert L. Rowe was elected to the school committee, and Alfred W. Mrashall, Norman J. Ross, Willard M. Ferguson and Hugh T. Bond were elected aldermen.

WORCESTER RE-ELECTS.

Mayor Peter F. Sullivan was re-elected Mayor of Worcester by a majority of about 1,035 votes over Harry W. Goddard, millionaire candidate of the Republicans.

In Revere, Mayor Thomas Noone was elected over Dr. John J. Walsh by a narrow margin following one of the bitterest primary contests in years. In the primary, two candidates were eliminated, leaving the field to Walsh and Noone. The Mayor received 4,400 votes and Dr. Walsh 2,447.

The League question in Revere was tabulated as follows: Yes, 3,445; No, 2,488, with the substantial majority of 960 votes in a light ballot. The following councillors-at-large were elected: Henry J. Currier, John J. MacAuley, Joseph J. Walsh and Charles H. White.

QUIGLEY SWEEPS CHELSEA.

Mrs. Elma Burns and Daniel P. Reilly were elected to the Revere School Committee. The following ward councillors were elected by varying margins: James Thompson, Ward 1; Samuel Hulig, Ward 2; John Greenes, Ward 3; Athol Coolidge, Ward 4, and Joseph M. Morgan, Ward 5. For the berth of assessor and city clerk, respectively, John M. Liset and Albert J. Brown were elected.

Mayor Lawrence J. Quigley of Chelsea was again swept into power by a vote of 5,033 to that of 2,029 given his opponent, Edward Willard.

Lawrence registered herself in favor of the license question with the following vote: Yes: 12,163, to No: 2138. William H. V. Vose and Edward C. Callahan finished in the order named for the post of Commissioner of Public Health.

But three contests featured the city election at Newton and the vote polled was small.

Sinclair Weeks, son of Secretary of War Weeks, candidate for Alderman at large from Ward Three, easily defeated Philip W. Carter, the present incumbent, by a vote of 5,581 to 2,059.

In Ward One William S. Ball was re-elected alderman at large, defeating Thomas M. Gallagher by a vote of 3,862 to 3,589.

Harry B. Ross was re-elected alderman in Ward 4, defeating Albert L. Cole by a vote of 547 to 391.

KAISER WRITES TO WOMAN HE CAST OFF

(Copyright, 1922, by International News Service.)

Berlin, Dec. 13.—"Nothing is more terrible than to see your life's idol and your ideal in life shattered at your feet."

Frau Gabriele von Rochow, "the other woman" in the love triangle in which the former Kaiser is the central figure, fixed a pair of steel blue eyes upon the correspondent in a brave effort to stem the flood of tears that were welling up.

"Life to me," she continued, "now seems like one great yawning emptiness. Can you imagine an altar that is without its deity?"

In her hand Frau Gabriele held a four-page letter, written in stern, awkward German script, strangely contrasting with the signature which was none other than "Wilhelm," written with the usual flourish that used to impress officials in the old German empire.

RECEIVED BY COURIER

The letter had just reached Frau von Rochow today, although it was dated "Doorn, Holland, Nov. 28." It was brought to Berlin by a trusted courier. Suddenly her hand tightened its grip and the letter crumpled up as she exclaimed:

"Why does he write to me? Why does he send me these effusions extolling the beauty and capabilities of his new wife instead of just saying one single word which would put a stop to the campaign of slander against me?

"Here he writes to me that Hermine is wonderful; that she is just the kind of wife for him. But there is not a single word saying he is sorry for the way I was treated. And to think I have been his intimate friend since 1884 and for six months was secretly engaged to marry him. It is dreadful. And then I have been called his 'housekeeper' in stories obviously inspired from the House of Doorn to serve as an alibi for Princess Hermine."

Frau von Rochow tossed a picture of the former Kaiser on a table, asking the interviewer to read the inscription on it. Wilhelm had written: "To His Dear Markgrafen from Margraef."

These were pet names by which the couple had called each other for nearly four decades, Frau Gabriele said. The word Margraef is an allusion to the feudal past when the forbears of the Hohenzollerns and the Rochows were bitter enemies attacking each other in their castles in what was then called Mark Brandenburg.

It was the nucleus of the later Prussian kingdom.

According to reports from the prohibition director's office, the bootles have been unusually active during holes in the bottoms of sealed bottles, draining the good stuff and diluting it with varnish, shellac, turpentine, hair oil, fusel oil, eau de quinine, bay rum, throat gargle, brass polish, ether, kerosene and other fluids.

TURKS REJECT U. S. PLEA FOR ARMENIANS

Lausanne, Dec. 13 (By International News service).—Ismet Pasha, head of the Turkish delegation in the Near East peace conference, today rejected the Anglo-American request for a national homeland for the Armenians as "a new attempt to dismember Turkey."

He consented to grant amnesty to Christian offenders, but declared that the minority in Turkey must submit to military service.

Ismet opposed creating an international commission to safeguard Christians in Turkey, saying that clauses written into the treaty for this purpose would be sufficient.

Marquis Curzon, British Foreign Secretary and spokesman for the allies, delivered a menacing speech to the Turks. He said that "the allies were liable to leave the conference sooner than you think," unless Turkey consents to safeguards for the miserable handful of Armenians left alive. He denounced Armenian massacres as a scandal that shocked the whole world.

Caliph Abdul Medjid Greets Charles R. Crane

Constantinople, Dec. 13.—Charles R. Crane, former United States minister to China, was received in audience by the Caliph yesterday. Mr. Crane leaves for Cairo today.

New York Central Reacts in Strong Market on Failure to Increase Dividend

SEVERAL FRESH HIGHS MADE FOR YEAR

New York Central was a revolutionary feature on the New York Stock Exchange, off more than 2 points at its lowest. The directors declared the regular quarterly dividend of 1¼ per cent, payable January 1 to stockholders of record December 29. In some quarters an increase to 6 or 7 per cent had been looked for.

Several new highs for 1922 were set. These included Continental Can, Fisher Body, Moon Motor and Piggly Wiggly. Planer was up around 10 points.

There were gains of 2 to 4 points in Baldwin, Tidewater Oil, Studebaker and Pan American Petroleum. Asphalt was very weak, off nearly 4 points.

Otis Elevator slumped 2¾ and Woolworth 5¼. Elsewhere the market showed increasing buoyancy with sensational advances in scattered issues among the high-priced shares.

Mexican Petroleum and Texas Central got up seven. Equipments were heavily absorbed. American Can rising 4½ points.

Considerable activity developed in the low-priced motors following the jump in Studebaker and the tobaccos were strengthened by an advance of 3% in United Retail Stores.

Warren Bros.' Issues Are Higher in Boston

Warren Bros.' issues were higher in Boston trading. A feature was the strength in Inland Creek Coal, which declared 45 extra dividend Tuesday, and advanced 2¾ at 118¾, a record high.

Point or more gains were made by Ahmeek, American Woolen, preferred, United Fruit, Warren Bros. 1st preferred, and Amoskeag. Boston Elevated rose ½ at 45 to a record high.

Warren Bros. added 2 points; Point or more losses showed in Calumet & Hecla, and Boston & Maine Class B. Maine Central yielded a point, then recovered.

Extra Dividends in Stock and Cash Are Outstanding Financial News Features

FORBES' VIEWS ON FINANCE

—By B. C. Forbes—

One by one our living links with the earliest days of different industries and business in this country are snapping.

John Wanamaker might almost be said to have been not merely a pioneer, but the founder of high grade retail merchandising in America.

* * *

We have only a few of these notable links left.

Edison and A. A. Coffin were in at the start of the electrical industry in this country. The one is seventy-five; the other is seventy-eight.

Judge Gary attended the birth of the iron movement in the steel industry which was to give the country a few gigantic corporations. He is seventy-five.

George F. Baker is the only remaining nationally known banker who figured prominently in the earliest days of national banking as we now know it. The head of the First National Bank of New York is now eighty-two.

George Eastman, although only sixty-eight, was the first large scale manufacturer of photographic materials in this country. He is still very much alive.

William H. Nichols is the daddy of our heavy chemical industry. At seventy he is very much on the job as the chairman of the board of the Allied Chemical & Dye Corporation.

Charles F. Brooker, the first to establish big scale brass factories in this country, only recently threw off his harness when he sold control of the American Brass Company to Anaconda Copper. He is seventy-five.

John D. Rockefeller, who was one of the first to invade the virgin oil fields of Pennsylvania, is of course still in the flesh at eighty-three.

The father of the women's magazine of today, Cyrus H. K. Curtis, is still at the helm of the various important Curtis publications, and, although seventy-two, he can walk me off my feet.

William M. Wood, creator of the so-called Woolen Trust and the dominating figure in the whole woolen industry is still very active at sixty-four.

F. Wayland Ayer, the first notable and valiant fighter for truth and decency in the advertising business, still leads, in his seventy fifth year, the firm which he founded more than half a century ago.

* * *

I once had a terrible row with Mr. Wanamaker. He angrily forbade me to write anything about him. I told him that as he had once been postmaster general he ought to know that this was a free country, and that I claimed the right to write what I pleased about him or anyone else so long as I stuck to facts and expressed honest opinions. Our session had quite a stormy ending.

But the next Christmas I received a Christmas card from him.

* * *

John Wanamaker really made a tremendously valuable contribution to honest merchandising. He showed me that, next to what he had been able to do in wedding education to working in his stores, he was proudest of having inaugurated, in this country, in his very early days these four reforms, reforms which were revolutionary when instituted.

First—Cash payments on the spot to working people on completion of the work.

Second—Shorter business days.

Third—Not two prices; one price and only one.

Fourth—Taking back anything sold and returning the money if unsatisfactory.

* * *

He was proud, too, of the part he had played in music and art and of having introduced recreation and military training for store employes.

Yet Mr. Wanamaker, like the late J. P. Morgan, never indulged in any form of athletics, but found all the recreation he required in his work during the week and in his Sunday school and Y. M. C. A. activities on Sunday.

* * *

Some people have doubted whether Mr. Wanamaker personally wrote the wonderfully fine little "Epitaphs" which daily accompanied his large advertisements for many years. He did. I have gone through a whole bundle of the manuscripts, if such a dignified word could be applied to notes penciled on all sorts of odds and ends of white paper, brown paper, the backs of envelopes, the fronts of envelopes, tiny sheets from scribbling pads, etc., etc. I have one or two of Mr. Wanamaker's pieces in front of me as I write, one of them penciled on an envelope. Here is one of the sentences: "When our patrons says that we have their confidence we shall have reached the goal most desired."

Would you like to read Mr. Wanamaker's full biography, as written by himself?

It consists of these six words: "Thinking, trying and trusting to God" is all of my biography.

HAYES WHEEL MAKES PLAN FOR EXPANSION

Negotiations are understood to have been started by Hayes Wheel Co. to absorb another large manufacturer of automotive wheels. Successful conclusion of negotiations will result in substantially increasing Hayes Co.'s manufacturing facilities and should considerably increase earnings.

ARGUMENTS ARE BULLISH FOR STOCKS

By FRANK H. MELOON.
Financial Editor of the Boston American.

Extra dividends in stock and in cash are still the outstanding feature of the financial news. The discussion concerning stock dividends has at this time worked itself into such a tangle that, where so many disagree, it is evident the lawmakers in Congress and the law enforcers in the judiciary will themselves have trouble in taking a definite stand regarding bonuses.

New tax legislation is at no time very popular. We are learning that, even when the other fellow is taxed, we are very often the ones called upon to pay, which naturally dampens enthusiasm. All of which is a bullish argument on stocks

MILLS GENEROUS.

At New Bedford directors of the Acushnet mill have recommended a stock dividend of 32 1-3 per cent, to increase the capitalization from $1,500,000 to $2,000,000

Directors of the Hathaway Manufacturing Co. propose a stock dividend of 25 per sent., increasing capital from $1,500,000 to $2,000,000. Both corporations are under the same management and manufacture fine cotton goods.

During the last two weeks cotton mill corporations have recommended stock dividends amounting in the aggregate to $6,000,000 and have declared extra cash dividends totaling $400,000, making a grand total of dividends for the year of $12,407,492 on a capitalization of $55,781,000, or an average of slightly more than 22 per cent

COTTON RISE SEEN.

Higher prices for cotton and a decided check on the consumption of cotton goods are forecast for next year in the monthly statistical summary of the cotton industry issued by the Merchants National Bank

After figuring a consumption of 12,000,000 bales the bank estimates the supply, including carry over, new crop and imports, at 12,650,000 bales. "The carry over at the end of the current cotton season," says the bank, "would be only about 600,000 bales, equaling less than a single month's consumption and exports. It would not be enough to carry the mills to September or October, when the new crop would be available and it would, accordingly, force drastic curtailment of mill operations.

"It would appear that before supplies declined to such an abnormally low level the price of the staple would have operated to check world consumption and to keep stocks in this country at a much higher figure."

BANGOR & AROOSTOOK.

To K. R. Y., Brookline—President Percy R. Todd of the Bangor & Aroostook, discussing the fine showing railroad, tells me: "So far as 1922 is concerned we had a very large and profitable business in the first six months of the year; the latter six months there has been a material falling off owing to a partial failure of the potato crop

"The potato shipping season is from September 1 one year to June 30 the next year. During the period ending June 30, 1922, we handled 29,709 carloads of potatoes, during the period September 1, 1921, to June 30, 1921, I estimate we will handle only about one-half that number, which, of course, will make a material inroad in our earnings, though this is partially offset by an improvement in the lumber traffic and in overhead (w/c from Canada via the international railroad bridge at Van Buren.

"December of each year is the month in which adjustments have to be made of expenses, etc., incurred in making repairs, rehabilitating, etc., during the Summer months, and therefore it is impossible for me to state exactly how we will come out for 1922, but I think it will show approximately the interest on our bonds earned, the seven per cent. on our preferred stock and perhaps six or seven per cent. on our common stock.

"My estimate for the year 1923, which, of course, is merely a guess, is that it will not be so good as 1922."

Extra Dividends in Stock and Cash Are Outstanding Financial News Features

FORBES' VIEWS ON FINANCE

—By B. C. Forbes—

One by one our living links with the earliest days of different industries and business in this country are snapping.

John Wanamaker might almost be said to have been not merely the pioneer, but the founder of high grade retail merchandising in America.

• • •

We have only a few of these notable links left.

Edison and C. A. Coffin were in at the start of the electrical industry in this country. The one is seventy-five, the other is seventy-eight.

Judge Gary attended the birth of the larger movement in the steel industry, which was to give the country a few great corporations. He is seventy-four.

George F. Baker is the only remaining nationally known banker who figured prominently in the earliest days of national banking as we now know it. The head of the First National Bank of New York is now eighty-two.

George Eastman, although only eighty-six, was the first large scale manufacturer of photographic materials in this country. He is seventy-two.

William H. Nichols is the daddy of our lusty chemical industry. At seventy-two he is much in the public eye as the chairman of the board of the Allied Chemical & Dye Corporation.

Charles F. Brooker, the first to establish big steam blast furnaces in this country, only recently threw off his harness when he sold control of the American Brass Company to Anaconda Copper. He is seventy-five.

John D. Rockefeller, who was one of the first to invade the virgin oil fields of Pennsylvania, is of course also in the flesh at eighty-three.

The father of the women's wear fashion of today, Cyrus H. K. Curtis, is at the helm of the various important Curtis publications and, although seventy-two, he can walk me off my feet.

William M. Wood, creator of the once-all-powerful Woolen Trust and the dominating figure in the whole woolen industry is still very active at sixty-four.

F. Wayland Ayer, the first notable ad. man and builder for truth and decency in the advertising business with heads in the seventies, built the Ayer & Sons Co. he founded more than half a century ago.

• • •

I once had a terrible row with Mr. Wanamaker. He angrily forbade me to write anything about him. I told him that as he had once been postmaster general he ought to know that this was a free country and that I received from readers and that I received the right to write what I pleased about him or anyone else so long as I stuck to facts and expressed honest opinions. Our session had quite a stormy ending.

But the next Christmas I received a Christmas card from him.

• • •

John Wanamaker really was a tremendously valuable contribution to honest merchandising. He told me that, next to what he had been able to do in wedding education to working in his store, he was proudest of having inaugurated, in this country, in his very early days these four reforms, reforms which were revolutionary when instituted:

First—Cash payments on the spot to working people on completion of the week.

Second—Shorter business days.

Third—Not two prices, one price and only one.

Fourth—Taking back anything sold and returning the money if unsatisfactory.

• • •

He was proud, too, of the part he had played in music and art and of having introduced recreation and military training for boys' employes.

[illegible] Wanamaker never indulged in any form of athletics, but found all the recreation he required in his work during the week and in his Sunday school and Y. M. C. A. activities on Sunday.

• • •

Some people have doubted whether Mr. Wanamaker personally wrote the wonderfully fine little "Editorials" which daily accompanied his large advertisements for many years. He did. I have gone through a whole bundle of the manuscripts, if such a dignified word could be applied to notes pencilled on all sorts of odds and ends of white paper, yellow paper, brown paper, the backs of envelopes, the fronts of envelopes, tiny sheets from scribbling pads, etc., etc. I have one or two of Mr. Wanamaker's pieces in front of me as I write, one of them pencilled on an envelope. Here is one of the sentences: "When our patrons says that we have their confidence we shall have reached the goal most desired."

Would you like to read Mr. Wanamaker's full biography, as written by himself?

It consists of these six words: "Thinking, trying and trusting to God" is all of my biography.

ARGUMENTS ARE BULLISH FOR STOCKS

By FRANK H. MELDON,
Financial Editor of the Boston American.

Extra dividends in stock and in cash are still the outstanding feature of the financial news. The discussion concerning stock dividends has at the time worked itself into such a tangle that, where so many disagree, it is evident the lawmakers in Congress and the law enforcers in the judiciary will themselves have trouble in taking a definite stand regarding bonuses.

New tax legislation is at no time very popular. We are learning that, even when the other fellow is taxed, we are very often the ones called upon to pay, which naturally dampens enthusiasm. All of which is a bullish argument on stocks.

MILLS GENEROUS.

At New Bedford directors of the Acushnet mill have recommended a stock dividend of 33 1-3 per cent, to increase the capitalization from $1,500,000 to $2,000,000.

Directors of the Hathaway Manufacturing Co. propose a stock dividend of 25 per cent., increasing capital from $1,600,000 to $2,000,000. Both corporations are under the same management and manufacture fine cotton goods.

During the last two weeks cotton mill corporations have recommended stock dividends amounting in the aggregate to $6,400,000 and have declared extra cash dividends totaling $400,000, making a grand total of dividends for the year of $17,497,492 on a capitalization of $85,700,000, or an average of slightly more than 22 per cent.

COTTON RISE SEEN.

Higher prices for cotton and a decided check on the consumption of cotton goods are forecast for next year in the monthly statistical summary of the cotton industry issued by the Merchants National Bank.

After figuring a consumption of 15,000,000 bales, the bank estimates the supply, including carry over, new crop and imports, at 12,650,000 bales. "The carry over at the end of the current cotton season," says the bank, "would be only about 600,000 bales, equaling less than a single month's consumption and exports. It would not be enough to carry the new crop to September or October, when the new crop would be available and it would, accordingly, force drastic curtailment of mill operations.

"It would appear that before supplies declined to such an abnormally low level the price of the staple would have operated to check world consumption and to keep stocks in the country at a much higher figure."

BANGOR & AROOSTOOK.

To M. R. Y., Brookline—President Percy R. Todd of the Bangor & Aroostook, discussing "the fine showing railroad, tells me: "So far as 1922 is concerned we had a very large and profitable business in the first six months of the year; the latter six months there has been a material falling off owing to a partial failure of the potato crop.

"The potato shipping season is from September 1 one year to June 30 the next year. During the period ending June 30, 1922, we handled 29,200 carloads of potatoes; during the period September 1, 1921, to June 30, 1922, I estimate we will handle only about one-half that number, which, of course, will make a material inroad in our earnings, though this is partially offset by an improvement in lumber traffic and in overhead traffic from Canada via the international railroad bridge at Van Buren.

"December of each year is the month in which adjustments have to be made of expenses, etc., incurred in making repairs, rehabilitating, etc., during the Summer months, and therefore it is impossible for me to state exactly how we will come out for 1922, but I think it will show approximately the interest on our bonds earned, the seven per cent. on our preferred stock and perhaps six or seven per cent. on our common stock.

"My estimate for the year 1923, which, of course, is merely a guess, is that it will not be so good as 1922."

LOEW'S, INC.

To F. B. F., Atlantic Avenue—Last annual report of Loew's, Inc., and subsidiaries, which was for year ended August 31, 1922, shows operating profit of $2,287,871 after expenses, depreciation, amortization, etc., equal to $2.18 a share on 1,060,750 outstanding shares, par, against operating profit of $1,490,740 or $1.49 the previous year. Company charged out $1,424,127 for extraordinary charges from profit and loss account, making surplus August 31, last, $863,867, against $100,414 August 31, 1921.

ENGLISH HANDS CHOKE SUBSIDY BILL DECLARES HINMAN

MILLIONS IN TRADE IS AT STAKE OVER MEASURE

By GEORGE W. HINMAN.

Washington Dec. 13.—We hear daily that England is in different to the progress of the ship subsidy bill, that the invisible hands stretched across the seas to entangle it are not English hands that the intrigues spun by propagandists to impede it are not English intrigues.

England and England's commercial interests are represented as [illegible] make the trial as conditions that a subsidy bill will fail of its purpose as sure that in the competition that can return not more than her own share of the world's commerce and even what they have appropriated from America's share.

THEY ARE FALSE.

These are the two explanations. They are false. A business that has handled $7,000,000,000 of American trade in the past and if unsubsidized would handle it in the future is not the prey to [illegible] as alleged in England without a struggle. The stake is too great. The prize too splendid. As a free nation she will not let America get [illegible] her own without opposition. Where she presents the ship subsidy bill as opposed to [illegible] her propaganda agents [illegible] against her propaganda she [illegible] ocean or ocean are eager to defeat it.

For more than [illegible] colored England opposition. This has been set for here a grave danger to British shipping. The United States has been warned that it does not need a shipping service, that it is a new [illegible] and that foreign ships can bring commerce [illegible] in the hands of England who [illegible] supporting and subsidizing [illegible] We have been threatened with reprisals and [illegible] if we pass the bill should pass.

EXHORTED IN PRESS.

Englishmen have been exhorted in the English newspapers and reviews to exert themselves against the bill by diplomatic [illegible] But if in spite of all English efforts, the subsidy bill should pass then [illegible] the English would not be doing our duty if we failed to overhaul our [illegible] and prepare for [illegible] Gods with a [illegible] thunderbolts." The [illegible] are from the English press.

The United States has been accused also of trying to establish by the subsidy bill a [illegible] of ocean shipping, though at best with the new fleet we could carry only half our commerce while England carries nearly three-quarters of her own.

"If the official American [illegible] to conciliate Great Britain," says the Liverpool Courier, "it was [illegible] desired end thwarted by the introduction of a bill which must injure her, which already has alarmed her, which cannot but cause the most intense suspicion of American motives for a generation to come."

When it has been a question of the survival of the fittest, says another English publication, "we have usually come out on top to finish or mold our opponents and, as regards America's new merchant marine, we shall go on doing it and expect her to do the same by us."

Within limits England has the right to do these things and within limits we have the right to frustrate her [illegible] to be ground exercised for [illegible] to thwart us the [illegible] aside attaches to the propagandists who lie about these things to deceive us.

On our own side the chief blame rests on those soft and sentimental Americans who in the press, at public meetings and even within the halls of Congress [illegible] maintain a [illegible] attitude [illegible] the [illegible] and [illegible] of America [illegible]

No greater delusion ever [illegible] than is cherished by those who [illegible] now. They seem to think that America's new ships may find room [illegible] and justice enthroned for their benefit in all foreign lands, and cargoes ready to come aboard, regardless of the interests of other nationals only the American can show cheaper rates or better service.

That business is as hard, usually, as the waters edge as at home. In competition on the land and share across the seas, that trade rivalry is keened and often embittered by international difficulties and the foreign governments are more unscrupulous in their dealings than are private business men or [illegible] corporations. These points [illegible] were lost to their view.

For these reasons, the spirit now [illegible] in [illegible] that of American [illegible] today. It is the urgent advice of American [illegible] that [illegible] and [illegible] It is [illegible] that [illegible] [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Bay State Women Facing Poll Tax

URGE LAW AT PUBLIC HEARING

Tax Experts Declare Additional Income Is Needed to Meet the Growing Expenses

Women in this State may soon have to pay a poll tax.

The proposition was proposed today at a public hearing before the Special State Commission on Municipal Taxation and Expenditures which is striving to develop new sources of taxable income.

What do you think about a poll tax or women? said former City Solicitor Leslie R. Vaughan of Worcester, who is a member of the commission, to Fred L. Bennett, chairman of the Haverhill Board of Assessors, who was addressing the commission.

"I think all citizens ought to fulfill their responsibility, in every way, he said. "As a matter of fact the entertainment of women has been a source of expense. In Haverhill it costs $2,000 a year more to print the registration list alone, and there are other items of expense caused by their enrollment as voters.

Bennett said the $6 war poll tax ought to be continued indefinitely because there are some people who pay the taxes, even if they take no public affairs. If the women are taxed and the $5 poll tax is continued they would have to pay it as well as the men because in this State all taxation is supposed by law to be "proportional."

Dainty Foot Editor Is Amazed at Number of Small Ones

The Dainty Foot Editor is getting away behind on his Christmas shopping. He is beginning to wonder if there's a woman in Boston who HASN'T got a pretty foot. Letters from all over the city continue to pour in.

And yet—perhaps the girl who's destined to win the prize hasn't thought to send in her entry yet. She'll have to hurry. Because the contest closes the end of this week.

Another very wonderful prize has been added to the list for the winner of the Dainty Foot Contest. We can't tell yet what it is — but it's very much worth trying for. It's a surprise.

So — together with the unknown prize—there will be for the owner of the smallest foot in Boston, a bob at Keith's, a pair of slippers made to measure from "Barney's" and a pair of the finest silk hose to be found.

And for the winner of the most nearly perfect foot, there will be a box at Keith's, a pair of slippers made to order from "Walmsley's," and a pair of Corticelli silk stockings.

AND the surprise.

Read tomorrow's American for full details.

Above is Mary Cranston. The charming actress who will assist the judges of the Dainty Foot contest to arrive at a perfectly fair decision. Miss Cranston knows something about tiny feet—having the smallest feet of any woman on the stage, herself. Eileen O'Connor at right, is a fair entrant in the Dainty Foot contest. She wears a three. What's your number, girls? George Walmsley who has the rather difficult task of picking Boston's Cinderella from hundreds of entrants. He is to be assisted by James Stone and Arthur Anderson, both prominent Boston shoe men.

WIFE 'GAVE HER SOUL' TO GRON

Diplomat Proved Wonderful Lover, but Ideals Wrecked Couple's Perfect Romance

By MARCERY LEE.

Portland, Dec. 13.—"Idealistic, temperamental men make superb lovers, but the most impossible husbands in the world."

This was the conviction expressed by Mrs. Madeline Masters Gron at the end of her divorce trial here, which concluded one of the most spectacular international romances ever revealed in a divorce court.

The beautiful society sculptress, somewhat worn from her harrowing experience of the past two weeks, divorced with the Boston American the forces that destroyed her idyllic love affair with Nels Gron, Danish diplomat scholar and dreamer of world-wide commercial ideals.

UNEQUAL TO STRAIN.

"The strain of living with a man whose ideals take all the joy out of daily life, is more than any red-blooded American woman could stand," said Mrs. Gron spiritedly.

"When I came to earth after the first ecstasy of our honeymoon, I realized that his puritanical convictions frowned at all gay and merry things I loved dancing, theatres, except depressing tragedies, beautiful underwear, art—unless it were an apron—my children's laughter gay music, and all the other things that give color and brightness to life.

KISSED HEM OF GOWN.

"I was under his spell when I first knew him. The stern moroseness of his Scandinavian nature appealed to me. He made me feel exalted above all women; he told me I was the reincarnation of Joan of Arc whom he had always worshipped.

"Swept off my feet, I went on a love-pilgrimage with him to Rouen on Easter. At the foot of Joan of Arc's statue he knelt at my feet and kissed the hem of my gown, and then kissed my brow. I pledged my soul to him forever.

"I idolized his impracticality, and when he made breaches of common custom, such as neglecting to give me an engagement ring, I forgave him, because I thought he was too 'big' for such trifles. I covered up his shortcomings, and lived in an exalted dream.'

"Like many European men he wanted to be king in his household, and have his wife and children serve as unpaid servants.

LOVED HIM, WHEN AWAY.

"When I was away from him, so that I forgot the million petty annoyances that came between us every day, I loved him with all my soul. I felt I could go through hell itself for him, and I believed he was the finest, most noble man on earth. I used to think I would be glad to lose all my wealth and have a chance to live simply with him and our son in a cottage by the sea.

"I would then rush across the ocean to him, and for a time we would live on an exalted plane, where earthly things did not matter. If only he had had a sense of humor about his ideals we could have survived, I think.

"But gradually he would begin again to dampen my joy. He would make scathing remarks about my jewels and silks and furs. My silk stockings irritated him and the sight of my jewels gleaming on my arms threw him into a rage against me. He said I should wear for ornaments only simple field flowers.

LORING IS BUDGET CHIEF

Named by Cox to Head New Commission in Charge of State's Finances

Homer Loring, former chairman of the public trustees of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway, was today appointed by Governor Cox as budget commissioner and chairman of the new State commission on administration and finance.

The new commission will take charge of the State's finances, the purchase of all State supplies and the pay, working conditions and personnel of all the State's employes.

Thomas W. White of Newton, present State Supervisor of Administration and known as one of the closest political advisors of Governor Cox and Vice-President Coolidge, when the latter was Governor, was appointed Commissioner of Personnel and Standardization in the new commission.

James C. McCormick of Winchester, auditor of the United Drug Company, was appointed State Comptroller.

The position of State Purchasing Agent, with entire charge over the purchase of all State supplies, was given by the Governor to Colonel Robert L. Whipple of Worcester, a civil engineer, builder and contractor, who was made a Colonel of the 76th Division while serving with the American troops in France.

Loring's salary is to be fixed by the Governor's Council at not more than $7,000. The salaries of the other three will be not more than $6,500.

The appointment of the new commission with its extraordinary power over all State moneys and employes, has been awaited for weeks with deep personal interest by thousands of employes whose wages and jobs will be affected, by hundreds of contractors who sell supplies to the State and by other thousands interested in the attempt to revamp the State's financial system.

Among numerous other things, the new commission absorbs the State Department of Administration and will take over much of the work of the State Treasurer and State Auditor.

Waifs Visit Santa Claus in Boston

Come From Long Island Hospital for First Visit to City Where They Were Born

SEE CITY STREETS AND CARS FOR FIRST TIME

At top, Santa Claus and one of his devout worshippers from Long Island. Below, Miss Mary Hill, teacher, who brought the tots to the city. Middle row, left to right Gertrude Carey, Anna Cappa, Angelina Calcgno, and Christine McDonald. Bottom row, left to right, Margaret Porter, Martha Burns, Hazel Davis (Chinese), Amelia Maiof and Virginia Hobbs.

Nine wide-eyed little Boston citizens set foot in the city proper for the first time today.

Born at Long Island Hospital in Boston harbor, they "landed" at the Army base to visit a strange and wonderful new world.

Although they range in age from four to seven years, they had never been off the island before. They had never seen a streetcar, a paved street, or a theatre. They wore coats and hats for the first time.

The wonder journey came about through Miss Mary Hill, who organized a school at the hospital three weeks ago. Until she arrived, the tots knew only hospital life.

Election Commissioner Thomas Gargan met the party at the Army base and acted as host throughout the morning. The feature was a visit to "Santa Claus" in the big store.

Round eyes grew wider and wider. Little girls who had never owned a doll gazed in rapt adoration at the masterpieces displayed.

The pathetic little waifs listened spellbound when smiling faced dolls piped a word the waifs have never known. "Mama."

One wee little Chinese miss stood on tiptoe and earnestly asked Santa to bring her "a little baby brother, and a cat." This little waif has no parents, and is the pet of the Long Island Hospital.

Miss Elizabeth Maguire and Margaret J. Fallon, nurses who came with the children and their teacher, declared the tots got up at five o'clock this morning, for fear they would miss the Port Boat.

After their visit to Toyland, they were borne in the Mayor's automobile to City Hall play room, where luncheon was served. Laden with souvenirs, they took the 2 o'clock boat back to their island.

POLITICS AND RUM LAND FOUR IN JAIL

Lawrence, Mass., Dec. 13.—Politics and moonshine caused the arrest and conviction of four men on a charge of operating illicit stills here today. The men, who were fined $100 each in District Court, were Patrick Walsh, William Walsh, Peter Walton and Honora Keegan. Following an argument among the four men over two candidates for aldermen, Federal agents made raids on Allston and Pleasant street tenements and seized moonshine stills.

BROOKLINE MAN SEEKS DIVORCE

Frank S. Hamilton Declares Six Months of Married Life Has Been Continuous War

Because, he says, his wife "is too exacting," Frank S. Hamilton, an insurance man living at No. 33 Manchester road, Brookline, is seeking divorce in Suffolk County court. He charges her with cruelty.

As he described it, their brief married life of six months has been one continuous marital battle. It began, he testified, the day they returned from a two days' honeymoon.

He met his wife, he asserts, through answering a newspaper advertisement.

Their real rival skirmish occurred two weeks after the wedding, he stated. "My wife was becoming more unreasonable and dictatorial day by day," he said. "On this particular day I was sitting at the dinner table and because I sat down before she told me she hit me on the head with a milk bottle."

RAGED AT PIPE

On another occasion his wife attacked him with a large carving knife, he said, and once she went into a terrific rage because he continued to smoke a pipe after she had forbidden it.

"At Rockland, Me., my wife hit me with a flat iron which she carried for the purpose," Hamilton declared. "She did this after she had refused to take a boat ride with my sister and while I was waving goodby to my sister as she left the dock on another boat.

Hamilton described a running one-sided battle which was staged at the corner of Washington and Summer streets before an appreciative audience of forty or more persons.

CHASED DOWN STREET.

She flew into a rage, he declared, because he was seven minutes late keeping an appointment. "She called me vile names," Hamilton said, chased me down Washington street and then catching up to me pulled my coat off my back. She continued a tirade against me all the way home."

Because he smoked a cigar in the house his wife completely lost her temper and tore the weed from his mouth, he said.

At this point Judge Faddick facetiously interpolated: "It would not be amiss perhaps, to ask what brand of cigars you were smoking."

BIRTH OF CHILD COMPLICATES SALEM SUIT

A fortune of $250,000 will hang in the balance while the city of Salem sues the estate of John Kinsman to decide whether the three-story brick Kinsman block, adjoining City Hall, shall go to Alice Elizabeth Kinsman, granddaughter of the deceased or to the city.

There may be another descendant of Kinsman to share the estate if the city should lose its fight and this descendant might get the lion's share because it is claimed the second marriage of Albert S. Kinsman, father of both, was illegal.

When John Kinsman drafted his will he specified that after his children had died and his grandchildren were gone the block should revert to the city for a library.

Now city officials say that Albert Kinsman, who died last Summer, was married about 1900 to a woman down in Florida and that after three years they separated. There was a child, who, it is said, is the rightful heir.

A search of records failed to disclose any divorce from the first wife. In 1911 Kinsman married Elizabeth Halligan of Boston. The administrators, Leland and Howard Cole, meantime will apply to the probate court for direction as to the handling of the property.

LYNN BATTLER OUT TO STOP HARMON'S VICTORY RUN

ARMORY A. A. STAGES ALL-STAR SHOW

By JACK CONWAY.

Willie Harmon, with twenty-five straight victories to his credit will try to show why he is the greatest welterweight in the East when he battles Johnny Herman of Lynn in the feature ten-round bout at the Armory A. A.'s show at the Grand Opera House tonight.

Terry Brooks

Harmon is twenty-one years of age and the most promising ring star in this country. Any youth who can walkop his way to twenty-five wins in a row does not have to sidestep the toughest kind of opposition.

You ask, how has Harmon won so many fights? The answer is simple.

By fighting.

Aggressiveness, courage, a punch nad a knowledge of the game of hit and get away are the assets that have carried the Eddie Mack entry out front and made him the most talked of welterweight in the East

Harmon believes he has the best chance of any welterweight to win Mickey Walker a crown. So do a lot of other people who have seen this sensational ring star in action.

• • •

You will see Harmon get a real test tonight. Johnny Herman is one of those two fisted fighting men. He recently engaged in torrid battles in Paul Doyle and Jimmy Armato White. Doyle got a decision over Herman, but it didn't please the crowd which witnessed the tussle at Lynn. The fans were of the opinion Herman won.

The former Altenstown, Pa., welterweight who is now making his home in Lynn says he will show an abundance of class when he goes forth to action with Harmon tonight. Furthermore, he declares he will win.

• • •

Al Sears of East Boston and Terry Brooks of the West End will mingle in the semi-final of ten rounds These rivals should furnish a rugged mill. There will also be a couple of eights.

• • •

The New York Boxing Commission is under fire on account of its absurd attitude in the case of Johnny Kilbane. The featherweight champion is under suspension in New York, because he refuses to consent to matches approved by the noble Commission. This ridiculous body has gone further and lifted Kilbane's title. Of course nobody takes the New York Commission seriously.

Kilbane was champion long before the New York Commission started to function and does not have to defend his championship in the Empire State unless he cares to do so.

• • •

The signing of Kilbane to meet Eugene Criqui, French champion, at the Polo Grounds, New York, next year, caused all the trouble. To-Offtoshe made the match for the Republic Club with the provision that the bout be staged provided the ban on Kilbane is lifted. It appears up to the commission to tone down its opinion of itself and to place Kilbane, one of the world's greatest [illegible] in the ring game [illegible]

The Boxing Commission had the support of the New York commission, is apparently in for some real competition from the Republic Club. Rickard has had a virtual monopoly on all the big matches in New York and New Jersey and it is a good thing for the boxing game that he will have some real competition.

Jack Conway Picks Ten Straight Winners

WON	LOST
95	15

Jack Conway says he will try to hand the fans a couple of early Christmas presents in the form of winning selections at the Armory A. A.'s show at the Grand Opera House tonight.

"Harmon is our pick over Herman," says Jack. "The Mack entry is the biggest sensation of the boxing year. He's a kid twenty-one years old and has pounded his way to twenty-five straight victories. Can you beat it? Herman showed well against Doyle and White and hopes to win. He'll make a great fight, but we figure Harmon will breeze out front.

"Al Sears is in the best condition of his career and should win from Terry Brooks."

Jack has picked ten straight winners.

Will it be twelve in a row tonight?

LINOW SAYS HE WILL USE CALZA ROUGHLY

Will George Calza still be the great unbeaten champion after his match with Jack Linow at the Grand Opera House tomorrow night?

Here is the "Russian Lions" opinion of the contest:

"Everybody has taken Calza the wrong way to beat him. They have all gone out in a clean, gentlemanly way and taken their time to wear him down. They have given him plenty of time to get set and think so that his youth and endurance have won his matches for him.

"Now I'll take this boy altogether different. When the gong rings I'll step into him so fast that he won't know where he's at. Then when I get him at bay I'll give him some of the rough stuff. I'll jolt him a stiff on the jaw, and then butt him on the chest. When I'm all done with George, we'll see just how much of a champion he really is."

Linow should be able to do all of these things he mentioned. He fought in the ring as Jack Leon and has a ten round draw to his credit with Jess Willard, the ex-heavyweight champion. His rough tactics on the mat have won many bouts for him as he has his opponents afraid before the call of time. In addition to this, Jack looks to be in perfect physical condition and ready to wrestle the match of his life.

One thing remains certain and that is that George Calza, the Italian champion, has a busy evening ahead of him tomorrow at the Grand Opera House.

The other bouts on the card are between Louie Andrews, the fresh lightweight champion, and Steve Romanoff, while Tommy Howard will meet George Palmer.

JIMMY FRUZETTI IN MONTREAL GO

Jimmy Fruzetti, Brockton lightweight, has gone to Montreal with Billy Henderson. Fruzetti is billed to battle Oscar Deschamps in the Canadian city tomorrow night. Fruzetti recently showed in Montreal and made a big hit with the fans.

KID LEE WINNER OVER SAILOR BYRON

Worcester Dec. 13.—Sailor Byron, New England lightweight champion, was defeated by George Kid Lee of Worcester in ten rounds. Byron substituted at the last minute for Tommy Leahy, who was stricken with acute neuritis. Byron's title was not at stake.

Billy Woods of Medford, won over Jimmy Coyle in eight rounds.

Mickey Green of Worcester, knocked out Frankie Buff of Charlestown in six rounds.

Johnny Griffith defeated Joe Brodrick in one round.

GENARO SURE TO GIVE FANS THRILLS

Boston fight fans are showing great interest in the bout between Frankie Genaro of New York and Terry Martin of Providence at Mechanics Building Friday night.

The fans want to see Genaro in action. There has been so much talk about the little New Yorker who has twice beaten Villa, that Boston fans want to be on hand when he appears.

After watching Villa in two bouts in this city, Hub fans are of the opinion that he is one of the greatest flyweights ever produced. Then when they learn that Genaro has defeated him upon two occasions, they show considerable surprise and doubt.

Boston fans are skeptical. They've been handed many lemons in the past but they evidently have convinced themselves that Genaro was entitled to the decision he received over Villa at Brooklyn, two weeks before Villa won the championship from Johnny Buff.

Genaro has arrived in Boston with his manager, Martin is expected tomorrow. Each boy will finish his training in this city and will be in the best of shape. Martin may lose his bout with Villa in New York on December 20 if he should meet defeat at the hands of Genaro and for this reason he is anxious to win. Genaro wants to win in order to meet Villa in a decision bout in which the title will be at stake.

Three preliminaries will be staged. Tommy Nee of South Boston, a new sensation, will clash with Peddy Owens of Cambridge in the semi-final. Al Sears of East Boston and Tommy French of Brookline will meet, while Neddie Flanagan of Malden meets Ted Coolidge of Manchester.

WALPOLE PROS START BASKET SEASON

Thursday night, December 14, at Walpole town hall the crack Walpole Professionals will line up against the fast Winthrop Town Team in what promises to be a real game.

Says NICK

Flatley:

If Harvard Changes Grid System Yale Never Will Know the Score

NEW SYSTEM

BOB FISHER says he will have a new system at Harvard. Football team not offensive enough. You couldn't make Yale believe that, though. If Crimson gets any better, Billy Hull never will smoke that [illegible]

• • •

Harvard may get licked in minor games, but whenever Blue jersey shows up all rules are off. Crimson jersey has no effect on Yale since Bull lost his smoke.

• • •

Crimson put numbers on their backs for big game, then proceeded to put 'em on scoreboard. Had their own numbers and Yale's, too.

• • •

Fisher may have new system and Yale new coach, but the result will be just the same. Better team always loses, except in official score. That's what counts.

• • •

DOUBLE HEADERS are coming earlier than ever next season, thus removing what little joy was left in the well known national pastime.

• • •

NEW YORK YANKEES are importing half players from Cuba, Boston, no doubt, to bring soon a spirit into the club

All through season they get set upon and broken, nose and busted lose just to maintain ranking in by coaches. Team wins big game. Do they get [illegible] Nix nance. All fair of action. Not rough enough to make big boys go.

• • •

Poor scrubs beaten daily for hours and scrambled, but they never get cooked. If they give varsity better should hand scrub whole post office. Doesn't even get postcard. Plenty of rain though

• • •

Jack Dempsey pulls down a hundred thou for taking few [illegible] on elbows. Scrub gets panned for breaking collar bone just when they needed him. Then they make it all square with silver football. It's a great life.

CRIMSON ICE TEAM SHOULD BEAT B. U.

After hockey fans have a peek at the Harvard varsity team tonight at the Arena in its match with Boston University, they can look ahead with great expectations to the arrival here of the Nationals of Montreal, a band of French-Canadians who love stiff opposition. The Nationals will play the Victorias at the Arena Friday night, and the following night the B. A. A. team will tackle the Montreal team.

The attention of the hockey world is riveted on tonight's match, in which Harvard makes its initial bow of the season. Although the opposition tonight is not of the stiffest, it will be sufficient to furnish a line on what the Crimson possesses this year in its fight for the college hockey supremacy, a distinction frequently attained by Harvard teams in the past twenty years.

Ordinarily the loss of two forwards like Johnny Martin and Soup and the graduation of Dick Higgins in goal might cause some consternation in a squad. But Coach Bill Claflin, who last year established himself as America's leading coach, in ice man hockey, prepared himself for the present season.

Joe Laroque and Ed Beals will fit in the forward line vacancies perfectly while Jack Flint or Chandler Higelow will take care of the nets.

Taking advantage of the season tickets on sale for undergraduates, Harvard will have plenty of support tonight from the student body. [illegible] students will also be on hand to support their team, appreciating the great fight this outfit made against Yale last week.

BOSTON CLUB MANAGERS START DRIVE FOR NEW PLAYERS

CHANCE HAS HARD JOB TO REBUILD RED SOX

Patrick Henry Hickey on War and Downtrodden Millionaires

By Frank A. Parker

PATRICK HENRY HICKEY was reading the morning [illegible] and he was surprised to hear him [illegible] read it through carefully [illegible] for butter.

Pershaps it was upon that worthy individual [illegible] to keep on hand for the second [illegible] that he was asked [illegible] Patrick Henry Hickey.

"What were you doing," I asked, "when you heard the news?"

"I was reading the paper, sir, and the headlines caught my eye. I read the whole article through carefully before I took any action."

"What action did you take?"

"I went to the telephone, sir, and called up my broker and told him to sell out my holdings in munitions stocks."

"Why did you do that?"

"Because, sir, I am a peaceful man and I do not believe in war. I am for peace at any price. I would rather see my children grow up cowards than have them fight when there are more other things to do. I am opposed to war because it is oppressing our [illegible]

"Do you think there will be war?"

"I do not know, sir. I have not read the papers and I keep myself in ignorance of the events of the day. Perhaps at the end of the week there will be war. I am not sure. I am not sure that I will

Medbury Says Cyclones Make It Always Open House in Kansas

By John P. Medbury

KANSAS seems to be having more cyclones than usual This is the only State in the Union which raises everything, including its citizens.

THE millionaires there travel in automobiles, but the poor people have to ride around on tornadoes.

A CYCLONE is alright while you keep going but it's not so good when you get to your destination.

THE only trouble with living in Kansas is that you never know when some of your neighbors are going to drop in on you

BUT they're very informal out there—they come in through the roof or the window or anything

ONE guy dropped into his uncle's house through the skylight His uncle asked him why his brother didn't come with him He said, "Brother missed the cyclone I raught, but he'll be here on the next one."

TORNADOES tear down every thing so it's always open house in Kansas

OF course you've always got a roof to sleep under, but you don't always know where your roof is going to be

IN that State they let the roof blow wherever it wants to and then build the house under it.

A HOME there is about as permanent as the average wife

A FAMILY in that country never thinks of hiring a moving van.

They just take their furniture out on the sidewalk and wat for the next cyclone

OF COURSE it blows your furniture all over Kansas, but you should worry; it probably isn't paid for anyway.

YOU wouldn't think it was a beautiful country, but many a tourist who visited there has been taken off his feet.

OF course people escape these cyclones by hiding in the cellar. People in other States do the same thing to get away from collectors

FOLKS in Kansas are very cheaty and blow about their town. In fact they blow all over the town.

IT'S nothing to look out of your window in the morning and see a couple of cereal fooling to work on a cyclone

THE only trouble is you have to wait for a cyclone which is going in your direction

CYCLONES pick you up easy and they'd be alright if they'd only let you down the same way.

THE BENEFIT OF CAREFUL SELF ANALYSIS.

You know your own weaknesses. Do not try yourself on account of them and simply wish and wish you were like others who are strong where you are weak

STRENGTHEN YOUR OWN WEAK SPOTS

It will do you no good to wish yourself different. You must be willing to make an effort, a sufficient effort, to become as proficient as others.

Knowing your own weakness gives you an outline of what you must do to get along better—to make good where you have failed.

Some persons are always saying they "do not know why" they cannot excel like some of their friends and so quarrel

Lack of honest personal analysis is the secret of not overcoming one's weaknesses.

In making an analysis of your weak spots try to look at yourself as a person apart from yourself—standing opposite you and of whom you know as much as you do about yourself.

This unbiased analysis of yourself is bound to locate the cause of your trouble and suggest a way to make an improvement

Be honest in analysis and as honest in applying the remedy.

WHEN KNIGHTHOOD WAS IN FLOWER

See This Romance of Princess Mary Tudor Starring Marion Davies in Super Motion Pictures Which Are Now Showing at the Park Theatre

By Charles Major

Princess Mary scorns the offerings of the royal tailor. A scene from the new motion picture

World-Famous Story of the All-Conquering Power of Love Over the Heart of the Wilful and Beautiful Sister of the Autocratic King Henry VIII.

SUFFOLK and Queen Claude had forgotten nothing and all arrangements were completed for the flight. A passenger had been dispatched two hours before with an order from Queen Claude that a ship should be waiting at Dieppe, ready to sail immediately upon our arrival.

After the ceremony Claude quickly bound up Mary's hair, and the queens departed from the chapel in the coach. We soon followed, meeting Clarin back at St. Denis gate where we found the best of horses and fleetest outriders waiting for us. The journey to Dieppe who had promised to would arrange for relays and as Mary according to the word was she had another to rely upon had taken the opportunity to become thoroughly frightened, no time was lost. We made these forty leagues in less than twenty-four hours from the time of waking, having rested only five hours at a little town near Rouen, which city we carefully passed around

[illegible] as are we still had our plans. Brandon was to take the ship to a certain island off the Suffolk coast and there await us the period of a year if need be, as Mary might in case of Henry's obstinacy be detained; then re-victual and re-man the ship and out through the North Sea for their former haven, New Spain

In case of Henry's consent, how they were to live in a style fit for a princess, Brandon did not know, unless Henry should open his heart and provide for them—a doubtful contingency upon which they did not too much hope. At a pinch, they might go down into Suffolk and live next to Jane and me on Brandon's estate. To this Mary readily agreed, and said it was what she wanted above all else.

There was one thing now in favor of the King's acquiescence—during the last three months Brandon had become very necessary to his amusement, and amusement was his greatest need and aim [illegible]

M[illegible] and I want to London to see the King, having landed at Southampton for the purpose of turning off the scent anyone who might seek the ship. The King was delighted to see his sister, and closeted her alone and over again.

Mary had as hard a game to play as ever fell to the lot of woman; but she was equal to the exigency if any woman ever was, she did not give Henry the slightest hint that she knew anything of the Count of Savoy episode, but calmly assumed that of course her brother had meant it really what he said when he made the promise as to the second marriage.

The king soon asked: "But what are you doing here? They have hardly buried Louis as yet, have they?"

"I am sure I do not know," answered Mary, "and I certainly care less. I married him only during his life, and not for one moment afterwards, so I came away and left them to bury him or keep him as they knew how or not which."

"But," began the king, when Mary interrupt[illegible] him, saying: "I will tell you."

I had taken good care that Wolsey should be present at the interview; so we four, the king, Wolsey, Mary and myself, quietly stepped into a little alcove away from the others, and prepared to listen to Mary's tale which was told with all her dramatic eloquence and feminine persuasiveness

WHEN A GIRL MARRIES

By Ann Lisle

AT this point I ceased tossing about for it seemed that a real decision was reached. I managed then to drift into a state resembling sleep and to start in a little circle feeling [illegible]

[illegible] I was a fragged and weary heap when next morning I [illegible] ted the sitting room for an [illegible] eight o'clock breakfast was [illegible] was sitting down a glass of iced orange juice hoping for the best from its supposed mineral effects when Bertha came in to say that Miss Storrs was outside and begged me to see her at once.

"Please say a word [illegible] quick," Bertha and Mr. and Mrs. Storrs to come in here. She can't have breakfasted so early in the morning," I said with a [illegible] which brought prompt and pleased recognition from Bertha.

Two minutes later Portia brought Mabel stormy into the room. I leaped to my feet to greet her and then fairly screamed myself in my efforts at sight of my Goddess-L. Liberty girl.

Her pallor was like the coming of dawn. Her cheeks were drawn, lights over her cheek bones so that they stood out sharply in high relief. Her eyes were sunken, and beneath them lay purple shadows. She looked like the dull image of the girl I seen yesterday morning from Ranlon Or 2 and from the realms of triumph in Rosa Carbasa land.

With a wan smile she [illegible] Mabel yielded to my coaxing. She drained her glass of orange juice, crushed a piece of toast and swallowed a cup of strong coffee. Then she opened them [illegible] and looked at me and cried:

"Would you believe it me no matter how I need—no matter what I may do—no matter what my sins may be—I need you now?"

"Need I answer?" I gently asked.

Said All She Could

"No. I suppose Rose Carbasa has said all she could invent. But in her case you don't like her don't trust her. On forgive me Arthur, I'm half mad. I may be sure. Would you believe in me if—a man were to come to you and [illegible]—and tell you I was not worthy of your friendship? Would you? Could you still believe in me if someone told you I was—was [illegible] from what you've always [illegible] of me?"

The agony of pleading in Mabel's voice made me forget [illegible] I got even [illegible] and I leaped forward, took one of her hands in both of mine and said with all my heart:

"Mabel Storrs, I believe in you now in spite of all you have told me. Do you think I'd turn to anyone who spoke evil of you—with a word of [illegible] to you?"

As if my words of faith and trust had restored to her something of the old [illegible] dazed look departed from her face, her head sank wide and [illegible] and [illegible] in a voice [illegible] as to ought to be the [illegible] of Liberty Girl

"Arthur, when I stood at your door way of Mr. Harrison's [illegible] [illegible] and saw Mandeville, I wanted to run—to [illegible] I knew away. The work that he'd been entrusted to me could, I have had me. I had a [illegible] of [illegible] finger than [illegible] or anything else. It would be [illegible]

You're [illegible] and [illegible] self," I reminded him.

"No. That was [illegible] ed by fear. But you can [illegible] and good by [illegible] me [illegible] dear." You said the [illegible] didn't seem real without me. You know I [illegible] to [illegible] to [illegible] how—I was driven. And I am driven, ridden by the Furies, Anne

Face Tells It

"Your face tells me that," I said quietly. "Is it [illegible] want me to know what it is [illegible] you so?" Don't tell me a thing unless you are sure you want to. 4216

A SMART AND POPULAR DAY DRESS

4216 Here is a model ideal for business or home year—showing simple lines, attractive and practical features. The collar is convertible. The sleeve may be finished in wrist length or to the elbow. The graceful becoming fulness of the model is held by belt sections over back and front. Pongee or twill for service and [illegible] crepe or velvet for a more dressy dress in this style would be fine for its development.

The pattern is cut in 7 sizes: 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48 inches bust measure. A 38 inch size requires 3¾ yards of 54 inch material. To make the collar of contrasting material 32 inches wide requires ¼ yard. The width of the dress at the foot is 2¾ yards.

A JAUNTY FROCK FOR THE "YOUNG MISS"

4207. Checked woolen and serge would combine well in this model. It is also good for wool knit fabrics, and for velveteen. The sleeve may be in wrist or elbow length.

The patterns is cut in four sizes, 6, 8, 10 and 12 years. A 10-year size requires 3½ yards of 32-inch material. To trim as illustrated will require ⅝ yard of 32-inch material.

4219

A STYLISH FROCK WITH NEW FEATURES

4219. Broadcloth or satin could be used for this model, with braiding or embroidery for decoration. The cascade drapery may be omitted. The sleeve is a new close-fitting model in two pieces.

This pattern is cut in three sizes, 16, 18 and 20 years. An 18-year size requires 3¼ yards of 54-inch material. The width at the foot without lapped part of front is 2¼ yards.

4035 3956 4221 3788

4035. Girls' Dress.

Cut in 4 sizes 4, 6, 8 and 10 years. A 6-year size requires 3½ yards of 27-inch material

3788. Ladies' Apron.

Cut in 4 sizes. Small, 34-36; medium, 38-40; large, 42-44; extra large, 46-48 inches bust measure. A medium size requires 5¼ yards of 36-inch material.

3956-4221. Girls' Blouse and Knickers.

Blouse 3956 cut in 7 sizes 4, 6, 8, 10, 12, 14 and 16 years. Knickers 4221 cut in 5 sizes: 8, 10, 12, 14 and 16 years. To make the costume for a 14-year size will require 6 yards of 32-inch material. TWO separate patterns.

HEAD STUFFED FROM CATARRH OR A COLD

Says Ely's Cream Balm Opens Air Passages Right Up

Instant relief—no waiting. Your clogged nostrils open right up; the air passages of your head clear and you can breathe freely. No more hawking, snuffling, blowing, headache dryness. No struggling for breath at night; your cold or catarrh disappears.

Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist now. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic, healing cream in your nostrils. It penetrates through every air passage of the head, soothes the inflamed or swollen mucous membrane and relief comes instantly.

It's just fine. Don't stay stuffed-up with a cold or nasty catarrh.

Ends Stubborn Coughs in a Hurry

For real effectiveness, this old home-made remedy has no equal. Easily and cheaply prepared.

You'll never know how quickly a bad cough can be conquered, until you try this famous home made remedy. The prompt relief is almost magical. It is easily prepared, and there is nothing better for coughs.

Into a pint bottle, put 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. Or use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it saves about two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, and gives you a more positive, prompter remedy. It keeps perfectly, and tastes pleasant—children like it.

You can feel this take hold instantly, soothing and healing the membranes in all the air passages. It promptly loosens a dry, tight cough, and soon you will notice the phlegm thin out and disappear. A day's use will usually break up any ordinary throat or chest cold, and it is also splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of Norway pine extract, the most reliable remedy for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

"Sylpho-Nathol makes healthful cleanness"

"Cousin Elizabeth took a Ph. D. at Wellesley. She's so scientific and scholarly you feel that every statement she makes is backed by facts. She thoroughly approves of Sylpho-Nathol. In fact, she's advising its use in her Welfare work in Boston

"The way in which housekeepers have come to realize the importance of sanitation is really wonderful, she said. 'Such measures are very necessary to community health. There would be less risk of influenza and other contagious diseases if Sylpho-Nathol were used in every home.'

"'All the ordinary cleaning in the world won't get rid of germs. They must be destroyed and that's what Sylpho-Nathol does. It meets a great need for a really effective household disinfectant and deodorant.'"

Sylpho-Nathol is safe. Though 4½ times stronger than carbolic acid, it is as safe to have in the house as a cake of scouring soap.

Sylpho-Nathol is pleasant to use. It destroys odors as well as germs, but its faint, friendly, refreshing smell doesn't linger

Sylpho-Nathol is easy to use. A teaspoonful in a quart of warm water makes a germ-smashing, pearly-gray solution that's ready for immediate use.

Sylpho-Nathol should be used regularly wherever odors may start or germs breed—in sink pipes to keep them sweet and odorless, in the garbage can to eliminate unpleasant smells and drive flies away, in the toilet to chase away damp, musty odors, and, of course, around the bathroom fixtures and as a flush for the closet bowl.

Sylpho-Nathol is a splendid healing antiseptic for cuts, burns, bruises and sprains. It is indispensable for use in the sick-room, as a safeguard against contagion

Sylpho-Nathol comes in four handy sizes, 15c, 35c, 65c and $1.25. Most good grocers and druggists have it. If yours hasn't, he can get it easily. Just ask for it by name, —"Sylpho-Nathol."

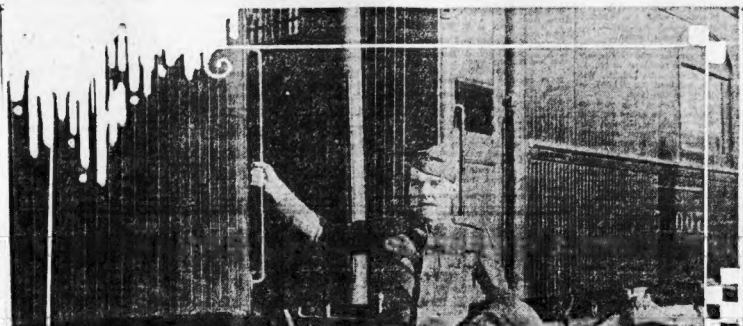
THE PRIDE OF PALOMAR By PETER B. KYNE

An Engrossing Story of Southern California by the Author of "Kindred of the Dust"

START THIS NEW STORY TODAY

Don Miguel Farrel of the Palomar ranch receives a telegram from Washington reporting the death of his son with the troops in Siberia. Don Mike, very much alive first sergeant of a field battery, arrives at the Presidio some time after for demobilization. He forms his company and delivers a farewell speech as his captain gets stage fright. He has a long talk with the latter, in which he tells him of his home and the history of his family.



Don Mike swung off the train at Serpe for his homeward trip through the San Gregorio

"YOU'D like him. Any time you want to spend a furlough on the Palomar, we'll make you mighty welcome. Better come in the Fall for the quail-shooting." He glanced at his wrist-watch, and sighed. "Well, I suppose I'd do well to be toddling along. Is the captain going to remain in the service?"

The captain nodded.

"My people are hell-benders on conforming to custom, also," he added. "We've all been field artillerymen."

"I believed I thanked you for a favor you did me once, but to prove I meant what I said, I'm going to send you a horse, sir. He is a chestnut with silver points, five years old, sixteen hands high, sound as a Liberty Bond, and bred in the purple. He is beautifully reined, game, full of ginger, but gentle and sensible. He'll weigh ten hundred in condition, and he's as active as a cat. You can win with him at any horse-show and at the head of a battery, Dios, He is every inch a catalion!"

"Sergeant, you're much too kind. Really——"

"The things we have been through together, sir—all that we have been to each other—never can happen again. You will add greatly to my happiness if you will accept this animal as a souvenir of our very pleasant association."

"Oh, son, this is too much! You're giving me your own private mount. You love him. He loves you. Doubtless he'll bounce you the minute you enter the pasture."

Flashed a Smile

Farrel's fine white teeth flashed in a brilliant smile.

"I do not desire to have the captain mounted on an inferior horse. We have many other good horses on the Palomar. This one's name is Panchito; I will express him to you some day this week——"

"I protest you quite overwhelm me. A thousand thanks! I'll treasure Panchito for your sake as well as his own."

The soldier extended his hand, and the captain grasped it.

"Goodby, Sergeant. Pleasant green fields!"

"Goodby, sir. Dry camps and quick promotion."

The descendant of a conquistador picked up his straw suitcase, his helmet, and gas mask. At the door, he stood to attention and saluted. The captain leaped to his feet and returned this salutation of warriors; the door opened and closed, and the officer stood staring at the space so lately occupied by the man who, for eighteen months, had been his right hand.

"Strange man!" he muttered. "I didn't know they bred his kind any more. Why, he's a feudal baron!"

Chapter III

There were three people in the observation car when Michael Joseph Farrel boarded it a few minutes before 8 o'clock the following morning. Of the three, one was a girl, and, as Farrel entered, carrying the souvenirs of his service—a helmet and gas-mask—she glanced at him with the interest which the average civilian manifests in any soldier obviously just released from service and homeward bound. Farrel's glance met hers for an instant with equal interest; then he turned to stow his impedimenta in the brass rack over his seat. He was granted an equally swift but more discriminating appraisal of her as he walked down the observation-car to the rear platform, where he selected a chair in a corner that offered him sanctuary from the cold, fog-laden breeze, lighted a cigar, and surrendered himself to contemplation, in his mind's eye, the joys of home-coming.

He had the platform to himself until after the train had passed Palo Alto, when others joined him. The first to emerge on the platform was a Japanese. Farrel favored him with a cool, contemptuous scrutiny, for he was a Californian and did not hold the members of this race in a little of the esteem he accorded other Orientals.

This Japanese was rather shorter and thinner than the majority of his race. He wore large, round tortoise-shell spectacles, and clothes that proclaimed the attention of the very best tailors; a gold band ring, set with one blue-white diamond and two exquisite sapphires, adorned the pinky finger of his right hand. Farrel judged that his gray beaver hat must have cost at least fifty dollars.

"We ought to have Jim Crow cars for these cook-ware sons of Nippon," the ex-soldier agreed to himself. "We'll come to it yet if something isn't done about them. They breed so fast they'll have to crowded into back-yards to another decade."

Clashed With Japs

He had had some unpleasant clashes with Japanese troops in Siberia, and the memory of their studied insolence was all the more poignant because it had gone unchallenged. He observed, now, that the Japanese passenger had permitted the screen door to slam in the face of the man following him, with a very definite appreciation of the good things of life, he had instantly selected the chair in the corner opposite Farrel, where he could smoke his cigar free from the wind. Following the Japanese came an American, as distinctive of his class as the Japanese was of his. In the point of age, this man was about fifty years old—a large man strikingly handsome, and of impressive personality. He courteously held the door open to permit the passage of the girl whom Farrel had noticed when he first entered the car.

To Farrel, at least, a surprising impulse now occurred. There were eight vacant seats on the platform, and the girl's glance swept them all; he fancied it rested longest upon the chair beside him. Then, with the faintest possible little move of disapproval, she seated herself beside the Japanese. The other man took the seat in front of the girl, half turned, and entered into conversation with the Jap.

Farrel studied the trio with interest, decided that they were traveling together, and that the man in the gray tweeds was the father of the girl. She bore a striking resemblance to him and had inherited his handsome features a thousandfold, albeit her eyes were different, being large, brown and wide apart; from them beamed a sweetness, a benignancy, and tenderness that, to the impressionable Farrel, bespoke mental as well as physical beauty. She was gowned, gloved, and hatted with rich simplicity.

From the East

"I think that white man is from the East," Farrel concluded, although why that impression came to him, he would have been at a loss to explain. Perhaps it was because he appeared to associate on terms of social equality with a Japanese whose boorishness, coupled with an evident desire to leave with everything the white man said, proclaimed him anything but consular representative or a visiting merchant.

Presently the girl's brown eyes were turned casually in Farrel's direction, seemingly without interest. Instantly he rose, fixed her with a comprehending look, nodded almost imperceptibly toward the chair he was vacating, and returned to his seat inside the car. Her fine brows lifted a trifle; her slight inclination of the head was robbed of the chill of brevity by a fleeting smile of gratitude, not so much for the sacrifice of his seat in her favor as for the fine courtesy which had moved him to proffer it without making his action an excuse to sit beside her and attempt an acquaintance.

From his exile, Farrel observed with satisfaction how quickly the girl and herself fell to her companions and crossed over to the seat vacated in her favor.

At the first call for luncheon, he entered the diner and was given a seat at a small table. The seat opposite him was unoccupied, and when the girl entered the diner alone and was shown to this vacant seat, Farrel thrilled pleasurably.

"Three long, loud ones for you, young lady!" he soliloquized. "You didn't care to eat at the same table with the brown bear; so you came to luncheon alone."

Glances Met

As their glances met, there was in Farrel's black eyes no hint of recognition for he possessed in full measure all of the modesty and timidity of the most modest and timid race on earth where women are concerned—the Irish—tempered with the exquisite courtesy of that race for whom courtesy and solitude toward woman are a tradition—the Spanish of that but extinct California caste known as the gente.

It pleased Farrel to pretend careful study of the menu. Although his preferences in food were simple, he was extraordinarily hungry and knew exactly what he wanted. For long months he had dreamed of a porterhouse steak smothered in mushrooms, and now, finding that appetizing viand listed on the menu, he ordered it without giving mature deliberation to the possible consequences of his act. For the past two months had been forced to avoid, when dining alone, meats served in such a manner as to necessitate firm and skilful manipulation of a knife—and when the waiter served his steak, he discovered, to his embarrassment, that it was not particularly tender nor was his knife even reasonably sharp. Consequently, following an unsatisfactory assault, he laid the knife aside and cast an anxious glance toward the kitchen, into which his waiter had disappeared; while awaiting the aid of his functionary, he slid his right hand under the table and gently massaged the back of it at a point where a vivid red scar showed.

He was aware that the girl was watching him, and, with the fascination peculiar to such a situation, he could not forbear a quick glance at her. Interest and concern showed in the brown eyes and she smiled frankly as she said:

Offers to Car ve

"I very much fear, Mr. Ex-First Sergeant, that your steak constitutes an order you are unable to execute. Perhaps you will not mind if I carve it for you."

"Please do not bother about me!" he exclaimed. "The waiter will be here presently. You are very kind, but——"

"Oh, I'm quite an expert in the gentle art of mothering military men. I commanded a hot-cake-and-doughnut brigade in France." She reached across the little table and possessed herself of his plate.

"I'll bet my last copeck you had good discipline, too," he declared admiringly. He could imagine the number of daring devils from whose amorous advances even a hot-cake queen was not immune.

"The recipe was absurdly simple. No discipline, no hot-cakes. And there were always a sufficient number of good fellows around to enfetch anybody who tried to interfere with my efficiency. By the way, I observed how hungrily you were looking out the window this morning. Quite a change from Siberia, isn't it?"

"How did you know I'd soldiered in Siberia?"

"You said you'd bet your last copeck."

"You should have served in intelligence."

"You are blessed with a fair amount of intuition yourself."

"Oh I knew you didn't want to sit near that Jap. Can't bear the race myself."

She nodded approvingly.

"Walter's still out in the kitchen," she reminded him. "Now, old soldier aren't you glad I took pity on you? Your steak would have been cold before he got round to you, and I imagine you've had sufficient cold rations to do you quite a while."

To the Rescue

"It was sweet of you to come to my rescue. I'm not exactly crippled, though I haven't used my hand for more than two months, and the muscles are slightly atrophied. The knife slips because I cannot close my hand rightly. But it'll be all right in another month."

"What happened to it?"

"Saber-thrust. Wouldn't have amounted to much if the Bolshevik who did the thrusting had had a clean saber. Blood-poisoning set in, but our battalion surgeon got to work on it in time to save me from being permanently crippled."

"Saber-thrust!" They got that close to you?"

He nodded.

"Troop of Semenoff's bandits in a little two-by-four fight out on the trans-Siberian railroad. Guess they wanted the trainload of rations we were guarding. My captain killed the fellow who struck me and accounted for four others who tried to finish me."

"Captains think a great deal of good first sergeants," she suggested. "And you got a wound-chevron out of it. I suppose, like every soldier, you wanted one, provided it didn't cost too much."

"Oh, yes. And I got mine rather cheap. The battalion surgeon fixed it so I didn't have to go to the hospital. Never missed a day of duty."

She handed him his plate with the steak cut into bits.

"It was nice of you to surrender your cosy seat to me this morning, Sergeant." She buttered a piece of bread for him ago added, "But very much nicer the way you did it."

Would Have Waited

"Cast thy bread upon the waters," he quoted, and grinned brazenly. "Nevertheless, if I were in civies, you'd have permitted the waiter to cut my steak."

"Oh, of course we veterans must stand together, Sergeant."

"I find it pleasanter sitting together. By the way, may I ask the identity of the Nipponese person with your father?"

"How do you know he is my father?" she parried.

"I do not know. I merely thought he looked quite worthy of the honor."

"While away with the rough, bad soldiers, you did not forget how to make graceful speeches," she complimented him. "The object of your pardonable curiosity is a Mr. Okado, the potato baron of California. He was formerly prime minister to the potato King of the San Joaquin, but revolted and became a pretender to the throne. While the king lives, however, Okado is merely a baron, although in a few years he will probably control the potato market absolutely."

He thumped the table lightly with his maimed hand.

"I knew he was just a coolie dressed up."

She reached for an olive.

"Go as far as you like, native son. He's no friend of mine."

"Well, in that case, I'll spare his life," he pronounced boldly. "And I've always wanted to kill a Japanese potato baron. Do you not think it would be patriotic of me to immolate myself and reduce the cost of spuds?"

"I never eat them. They're very fattening. Now, if you really wish to be a humanitarian, why not search out the Japanese garlic king?"

"I dare not. His demise would place me in bad odor."

She Laughed

She laughed merrily. Evidently she was finding him amusing company. She looked him over appraisingly and queried bluntly.

"Were you educated abroad?"

"I was not. I'm a product of a one-room schoolhouse perched on a bare hill down in San Marcos County."

"But you speak like a college man."

"Excuse me. I forgot I was addressing a hot-cake queen. But please do not threaten me, because I'm out of the army just twenty-four hours, and I'm independent, and I may resent it. I can order spoon-victuals, you know."

"You aren't really Spanish?"

"Not really. Mostly. I'd fight a wild bull this minute for a single red-chilli pepper. I eat them raw."

"And you're going home to your ranch now?"

"Sí. And I'll not take advantage of any stop-over privileges on the way, either. Remember the fellow in the song who kept on proclaiming that he had to go back—that the must go back—that he would go back—to that dear old Chicago town? Well, that poor exile had only just commenced to think that he ought to begin feeling the urge to go home. Struggle of the Last of an Ancient Line to Save Estate From Hands of Japanese

"I am. I'm a graduate of the University of California Agricultural College, at Davis. I'm sharp on pure-bred beef cattle, pure-bred swine, and irrigation. I know why hens decline to lay when eggs are worth 80 cents a dozen, and why young turkeys are so blamed hard to raise in the Fall. My grandfather and my father were educated at Trinity College, Dublin, and were sharps on Latin and Greek, but I never figured the dead languages as much of an aid to a man doomed from birth to view cows from the hurricane-deck of a horse."

"But you have such a funny little clipped accent."

He opened his great black eyes in feigned astonishment.

"Oh, didn't you know?" he whispered.

"Know what?"

"Unfortunate young woman!" he murmured to his water-glass. "No wonder she sits in public with that pudgy son of a chrysanthemum, when she isn't even able to recognize a greaser at a glance. Oh, Lord!"

"You're not a greaser," she challenged.

"No?" he bantered. "You ought to see me squatting under an avocado tree, singing the 'Spanish Cavalier' to a guitar accompaniment. Listen: I'll prove it without the accompaniment." And he hummed softly:

"The Spanish cavalier,
Went out to rope a steer,
Along with his paper cigar-o,
'Car-hamba!' says he.
'Manana you will be Much more carne por mio'"

Eyes Danced

Her brown eyes danced.

"That doesn't prove anything except that you're an incorrigible Celt. When you stooped down to kiss the stone at Blarney Castle, you lost your balance and fell in the well. And you've dripped blarney ever since."

"Oh, not that bad, really! I'm a very serious person ordinarily. That little forgot-me-not of language is a heritage of my childhood. Mother taught me to pray in Spanish, and I learned that language first. Later, my grandfather taught me to swear in English with an Irish accent, and I've been fearfully balled up ever since. It's very inconvenient."

"Be serious, soldier, or I shall not cut your meat for you at dinner."

"Excuse me. I forgot I was addressing a hot-cake queen. But please do not threaten me, because I'm out of the army just twenty-four hours, and I'm independent, and I may resent it. I can order spoon-victuals, you know."

Gifts That Will Make Happy the Amateur Photographer

Encourage the fad for photography—it cultivates the love of the beautiful and creates greater interest in the great out-of-doors.

Gifts that encourage the development of this art are both practical and pleasure-bringing.

All the things photographers need, from blue print paper to cameras and the places to buy them, are included in the list of gifts to be found in The American's "Christmas Gift Suggestions" columns. The use of these columns will lighten the labor of Christmas Shopping, and make the results of your shopping more satisfactory.

USE MENTHO-LAXENE

A few doses of Mentho-Laxene Cough Syrup will stop a bad cough and cold in short order. Every devoted mother will surely be thankful to know that she can make this fine cough syrup at small expense and with five minutes of her time. Loving mothers watch "coughs" and "colds"—they are treacherous and dangerous! If a cold is allowed to go on it usually causes a running down of the system and opens the way for chronic catarrh, pneumonia and many other serious diseases.

Intelligent mothers fear to give cough and cold medicines containing chloroform and narcotics.

Mentho-Laxene is pure and free from chloroform, opiates or narcotics.

Such valuable medicines as Mentho-Cascara, Wild Cherry, Tolu, etc., are blended in Essence Mentho-Laxene in such a way as to make a quickly effective treatment for old and young. It is so inexpensive that a full pint can be made at a cost of about 75 cts. or less. Just ask leading druggists for a bottle of Blackburn's Essence Mentho-Laxene. Plain, easy directions to make and the dosage is with each bottle. There is no safer, better protection for the whole family. Hundreds of thousands of bottles have been used in the past 12 years.

ARE YOU TIRED WHEN YOU GET UP?

REMEMBER how you used to jump out of bed in the morning, full of "pep" and vim, eager for a hard day's work?

If you have begun to fear those days have gone forever, take Gude's Pepto-Mangan and see how it brings back the color to your cheeks, but de firm flesh and rich red blood, and makes you feel younger, stronger, healthier and more vigorous in every way.

Your druggist has Gude's—liquid or tablets, as you prefer.

Dandruff Soon Ruins The Hair "Use Liquid Arvon"

Girls, if you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It does no good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it; then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. Four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.

REAL ESTATE HAPPENINGS

BUYS BUILDING OCCUPIED.

The trustees of the Whiting Real Estate Trust have sold to the H. D. Evans Steel Company the mercantile building, covering 2,836 square feet of land, at Nos. 127-132 Oliver street. The assessed value is $60,000, of which $42,500 is on the land. The Evans Steel Company have occupied the property for nearly twenty-five years. C. W. POLES ON STRIK PROTEST RIOT

Warsaw, Dec. 12. (By the Associated Press)—Many workmen are on strike as a protest against rioting in connection with the installation of Gabriel Narutowicz as President of Poland. The Minister of the Interior has resigned and the Chief of Police has been dismissed and is to be prosecuted.

No street cars were run yesterday and the electric current, also, was cut off. Demonstrations are reported from other cities. Support of the new President by Jews has incurred the displeasure of the Nationalists who have organized an economic boycott of Jews.

GET RID OF YOUR FAT

Thousands of others have gotten rid of theirs WITHOUT DIETING OR EXERCISING often at the rate of over a pound a day and WITHOUT PAYMENT until reduction has taken place.

I am a licensed practising physician and personally select the treatment for each individual case, thus enabling me to choose remedies that will produce not only a loss of weight harmlessly, but which will also relieve you of all the troublesome symptoms of overstoutness such as shortness of breath, palpitation, indigestion, rheumatism, gout, asthma, kidney trouble and various other afflictions which often accompany overstoutness.

My treatment will relieve that depressed, tired, sleepy feeling, giving you renewed energy and vigor, as result of the loss of your superfluous fat.

You are not required to change in the slightest from your regular mode of living. There is no dieting or exercising. It is simple, easy and pleasant to take.

If you are overstout do not postpone but sit down right now and send for my FREE TRIAL TREATMENT and my plan whereby I am to be PAID ONLY AFTER REDUCTION HAS TAKEN PLACE if you so desire.

SUCCESS
In His Own Way
There is home, love, fame, we attain it, and that is through persistent effort in business.
Most successful men are those who fail, in that they have done their best but more often because their labor has been expended upon the representation and non-responsive.
In becoming a representative of an organization which recognizes work from its salesmen, compensating them most liberally, offering every inducement for advancement, you have an opportunity.

Higher Wheat; Less Radicalism

And Mr. Penney's Insurance

Copyright, 1922, Star Co.

A very able, cynical politician said: "All the trouble with the farmers is the price of wheat. Give them a higher price for their wheat and all the radical farm agitation will die out, the same as it did after the Kansas 'Sockless Simpson' excitement. There isn't any real radicalism among farmers. Like other Americans they want to make more money, and they will raise h—— to make it. The price of wheat will go up sooner or later, then the farm radicalism will vanish."

That may be true in part. Our national pursuit is profit, undoubtedly. But in the meanwhile, farm radicalism is apt to do a great deal of good.

Mr. Penney, head of many "chain stores," insures his life for three million dollars. And that is low insurance for a first-class human brain.

One thousand millions would have been inadequate insurance for John D. Rockefeller, when he was young. And for value to future generations, the good that will be done by his Rockefeller Institute, in its fight against world disease, could not be paid for with one thousand times a thousand millions. This shows that "very rich men" are not always overpaid. Also it shows that the most valuable thing on earth is not radium, but the tiny working part of a human brain.

Generous Uncle Sam

How Easily He Pays

Copyright, 1922, Star Co.

Uncle Sam is a generous old individual, if you go at him in the right way. Everybody knows what he did in Europe, sending his billions there and getting nothing back. He is thinking now of handing some millions to Liberia, heaven knows why.

And he has just made his first payment of five millions to our little neighbor, Colombia, on account of "damage done" in building the Panama Canal.

The Panama Canal made everybody in Colombia richer. American shipping, thanks to government stupidity, got nothing more out of it than the shipping of all the rest of the world. Now each year for awhile we shall pay Colombia five million dollars for the pleasure of rendering that service to the nations of the earth after paying for the canal. Easy old Uncle Sam.

Do you wonder why we make such payments? Very simple explanation. It flatters the conceit of men in office to hand out your money in billions. They seem very generous to themselves while they "make the world safe for democracy," or rather make democracy pay for the world. It costs THEM nothing.

YOU are still paying for it, in taxes, and YOU will pay, for a long time.

Human Heart Neglected

Interesting Conclusions Drawn From Death Report of the Insurance Companies

The insurance companies have given out an elaborate review of the deaths of the year and draw some interesting conclusions. Our death rate is the same as the death rate in 1921, and the death rate in 1921 was the lowest ever known before.

While children's diseases and tuberculosis and typhoid fever caused less deaths this year, diseases which come from mental and nervous strain, such as heart ailments and Bright's disease, have caused MORE DEATHS THIS YEAR. More than one hundred and eighty thousand people died from heart trouble.

Deaths from heart trouble are controllable. But the heart, the most overworked organ of the body, the one organ of the body which never ceases for a moment to function without death, the one vital organ of the body which is not duplicated, so that if one stalls the other will go on, is the most neglected organ of the body, both by the layman and the physician.

Dr. Knight, who compiled the statistics, asserts that in his belief the average length of our lives could be increased by ten years, from fifty-four or fifty-five to sixty-four or sixty-five, if everybody could be taught some of the simple rules of hygiene and sanitation, and eating and drinking, and care of the heart.

If that is so, why is it not taught in our public schools; why the dilettante scratching of the surface in hygiene in our schools? Why, in our high schools, is not the course in hygiene and sanitation, and diet, and all the subjects which teach us how to live, compulsory and rigid? Why is not the course in how to live made compulsory in all our colleges? If life is worth living, why should we not avail ourselves of all human knowledge of the way to live in order that we may live longer?

Executions in Ireland

The executions in Ireland continue to be tragic and sickening. If the new Irish government wants to earn the execration of the world, it will keep on imitating the conduct on the part of the British government by killing brave and patriotic Irishmen whose fault, if any, was of the head and not of the heart. Men can love their country so much that their judgment concerning it is not the best, just as a mother's judgment concerning a wayward boy is liable to be the worst in the world.

But those are the men who cannot be terrified by death. Nor are any of those who are now holding out for the republic and will not take the oath of allegiance to the British King the kind of men to be terrified. Therefore, as we have said before, the excuse for taking life in order to put down rebellion is gone and it becomes nothing but murder.

Always, down through the years, liberal people in the world have believed that the Irish were mild and tolerant and not at all given to state murder. It is most extraordinary that men who have just come through a rebellion themselves, in which they faced death and who saw the ferocity of the British carried out against their comrades, should now emulate the British in that very conduct against their old companions who simply hated the British a little more than they did before they joined hands with the British.

Every ill-wisher of Ireland is saying, "I told you so," tonight. Cannot the friends of Ireland in America raise their voices energetically enough to stop this awful business? Why are not meetings organized in this country to protest against and to shock the wretched men in Ireland who are responsible for it?

WORDS FROM THE LIPS OF WISE MEN

In prosperity think of adversity.

* * *

Subtlety sometimes deceives itself.

* * *

Men find it more easy to flatter than to praise.

* * *

Nature has granted to all to be happy, if we did but know how to use her benefits.

* * *

However deceitful hope may be, yet she carries us on pleasantly to the end of life.

* * *

The history of the world tells us that immoral means will never intercept good ends.

* * *

Many fortunes, like rivers, have a pure resource, but grow muddy as they grow large.

* * *

He who is most slow in making a promise is the most faithful in the performance of it.

* * *

Prudence is that virtue by which we discern what is proper to be done under the various circumstances of time and place.

* * *

I have been in spotless houses.
Where true comfort did not reign.
Where I feared to move a cushion—
And I did not go again!
Make your home just as attractive
As you try to make yourself;
But, in pursuit of neatness,
Don't put comfort on the shelf!

* * *

Many men do not allow their principles to take root, but pull them up every now and then, as children do flowers they have planted, to see if they really are growing well.

Trans-Ocean Airships

London, Dec. 13.—In ten years' time no one will think of crossing the Atlantic by liner—everyone will use the air dirigibles.

That is the considered opinion of Captain "Eddie" Rickenbacker, famous American aviator, who is concluding a honeymoon travel through Europe by a visit to England.

"By that time the country that has neglected its air policy will be in a poor way," he said in an interview.

"Armies will have become very secondary affairs; everything will have become subsidiary to the air.

"The world will be a tiny place then."

For Peace

Editor Boston American:

"With malice toward none and charity for all."

Should a government charitable enough to forgive Jeff Davis, Bob Lee and their kind sixty years ago persecute for opinions and criticism only Gene Debs, Bross Lloyd and their kind today?

Should we follow the inhumanity of the white man of Europe? No. Let us observe the thought of the martyred Lincoln quoted above. That is the only path to peace and good will. The dungeon is the school of monarchy.

Horses' Christmas

Editor Boston American:

As the Christmas season approaches we beg our friends not to forget the annual Christmas dinner which the Animal Rescue League has been giving to between two and three thousand horses for the last ten years. This has not been a matter of sentiment, or an advertising venture, but a sincere wish to help horses and their owners. Our men begin their work at 9 o'clock the morning before Christmas and continue until 3:30 o'clock Christmas afternoon, taking in during their trips not only Boston proper, but about fifteen outlying towns and cities, and visiting between one and two hundred stables, barns and sheds, where they know that horses needing a good dinner are kept. Checks should be made to the Animal Rescue League and sent to No. 51 Carver street, Boston, where they will be promptly and gratefully acknowledged.

MRS. HUNTINGTON SMITH,
President of the Animal Rescue League.

Boy to Adopt

Editor Boston American:

I wonder if any of your readers would know of any little child in need of a good home. I haven't any children and would like to adopt a baby boy or girl (Protestant) under one year. I would give it the best of care. Hoping you will be able to help me as you have helped others.

MRS. H. J. N.

ED. NOTE—The address of a poor mother who has a boy for adoption will be sent Mrs. H. J. N.

Dog to Give

Editor Boston American:

Noticing some requests for dogs in your column, would like to be put in communication with some one who will give a good home and kind treatment to one which I have. Being one of the very affectionate kind, one to which a harsh, cross word is worse than a blow, am anxious that no one should get him who would not give kind treatment. He is thoroughly house-broken, quiet, and is sure to make a friend of whoever takes it.

NOISE NOT PROOF OF RIGHT

By Bruno Lessing

WHEN a person makes a statement in a louder voice than his neighbor, the statement is not necessarily true.

When a person is absolutely sure that his belief is correct, his certainty does not make it correct. When 999 people say or believe one thing, and the thousandth person says or believes the opposite, the majority are not necessarily right.

Noise, majorities, vehemence, turbulence, enthusiasm, faith and earnestness have not, in whatever to do with truth.

Truth is a modest little bird, usually perched upon the uppermost branch of the tree, singing quietly while the vultures, the buzzards, the sparrows, the crows and the hawks fill the air with rasping, chirping noises.

The younger Dumas, in his masterpiece, tells of Camille receiving a book with this single inscription upon the flyleaf:

"Humility."

It is a great word. And it conveys a great idea. To be humble. To be meek.

"Blessed are the meek, for they shall inherit the earth."

And I doubt whether Matthew meant that kind of physical meekness which impels a man to lay his neck in the dust in order that it may be trod upon. That would not have been reasonable. What he must have meant was the kind of meekness which makes one doubt one's own opinions, conclusions and convictions. Because that is reasonable.

Paris Gowns Like Mail

Paris, Dec. 13. — There is much of the coat-of-mail appearance about the gowns made of some of the unusual fabrics.

The Dolly sisters started the ball rolling in Deauville by wearing bodices and slightly full skirts of a new kind of leather made up for them. It is a twin sister to aluminum, but as supple as velvet, and it neither cracks nor breaks.

Curious bodices without any decoration are made of this new fabric, with which are worn fancy belts of great width.

Aluminum-colored leather is being used to make jumper jackets for cold days and motoring. It is metallic-looking, but without the hardness of metal. Bits of it trim many garments, producing the coat-of-mail effect.

SEEN AND HEARD

BEFORE departing for England, SIR THOMAS LIPTON sent his holiday greetings to his old friend, JOHN F. FITZGERALD. Lipton, in a complimentary mood, always greets Fitzgerald as "The King of Boston."

LIEUTENANT - GOVERNOR ALVAN T. FULLER is quoting to his friends the old adage that a man in public life can be best judged by what his neighbors think of him. The final, official figures from Ward 2, Malden, strongly Democratic, show this result: Cox, 82; Lodge, 101; Fuller, 686.

RANFORD BATES, the State commissioner of corrections, seems to have abandoned his previously futile attempt to gain State control over the county penal institutions. Bates and the Governor went to bat twice on that issue in the last two sessions of the Legislature and were struck out both times by the political pitching of the county rings.

Although MAJOR-GENERAL CLARENCE R. EDWARDS, who has just retired from the regular army after forty-three years' service, has been decorated by the French government with the Cross of the Legion of Honor and the Croix de Guerre, he never wears the ribbons of these orders on his uniform. The only ribbon that decorates his breast is the rainbow-colored one of the Victory Medal.

News item that Maine farmers are selling potatoes for 35 cents a barrel at starch factories rather than let them go to waste is especially interesting in view of the fact that they are considered cheap at $1 a bushel in Boston stores.

SECRETARY NAT F. P. NICHOLS of Cambridge Chamber of Commerce is preparing data in anticipation of a Chamber protest against Cambridge paying equal share with Boston in the proposed new Harvard bridge. This data is to be ammunition for Chamber representatives who may appear at legislative hearings on the bridge bill this session.

GARRETT P. SERVISS ON BEATING MOTHS

By Garrett P. Serviss

"How is it possible to exterminate moths, or how prevent them from boring holes in your clothes? There are ever so many moths in our apartment and in the neighborhood. I have used moth-bags, claimed as the best, but the moths did their worst to my Spring coat just the same."—H. K. L., New York.

IT is with the war on moths as with that on flies—eternal vigilance is the price of liberty, or victory. Kill all moths; don't let any escape. But the "clothes moth," tinea is his Latin name, is a very sly enemy and hard to catch.

Since the moth is seldom visible except when flying, and is so difficult to catch on the wing, and moreover since these insects frequently seem to luxuriate in the chemical environments that are intended to suffocate them, the best way to fight them is to brush and air and sun your clothes as often as possible during the season when the moths are on the wing, seeking places to deposit their eggs. This season opens in the Spring, and it is safe to assume that it will remain open all Summer.

Don't let clothes hang long unbrushed in closets. The moths are too much like flitting ghosts to be afraid of the dark, and also like ghosts they seem able to penetrate closed doors and solid walls. Once they get their eggs laid the mischief is afoot, unless you can brush the eggs out or otherwise destroy them. You may poison the air for them with camphor or some other insecticidal substance and thus diminish their activity and perhaps prevent the development of the eggs, but it is far better to keep the eggs from being planted or to brush them out before they hatch. A good stiff brush will usually do this if thoroughly used. Cold storage has an effect similar to that of the use of deterrent vapors and powders and is more effective than they are.

Now, in regard to your moth bag, you must supplement its efficiency, whatever that may measure, with considerable mental efficiency of your own. You should ask yourself before putting your clothes in the bag for the Summer, or the Winter, whether there may not be eggs concealed in them already, and whether it is not possible, or probable, that those eggs will hatch out after you have carefully closed the garments inside the bag. In that case, how could you expect that the garments would escape the rapacity of the larvae of the moths introduced along with them?

Even the cold-storage men don't trust to a low temperature alone to destroy or arrest the ravages of moths, but they brush and beat the eggs out of the garments before hanging them up in refrigerated atmosphere.

You have probably seen those little white cylinders that the moth larvae make out of the debris of your garments and in which they snugly live and continue to feed until they issue as fliers to plant more eggs. When you find them the damage is done.

HEROINES OF HISTORY

Significant Incidents in the Lives of Famous Women

By MARK STUYVESANT

PERHAPS the average person who reads "Ramona" cries over it and is thrilled by the beautiful story of the persecuted Indian girl, does not know what a real heroine the author, Helen Hunt Jackson, was, and what she did for the Red Man.

Grief drove this brilliant woman to take up literature as a profession. Perhaps it was sorrow which gave her the ability to write with such depth of feeling and sincerity.

Mrs. Hunt was the wife of an American army officer and spent the early years of her married life traveling in foreign countries. They had a little boy and were a very happy family.

Her husband, Major Hunt, was killed while experimenting with a submarine gun he had invented. Her sorrow over the death of her husband was still keen when her little son died.

In 1870 Mrs. Hunt remarried. Her husband was Mr. Jackson, a highly cultured gentleman. They lived in Colorado Springs. While there Mrs. Hunt became interested in the Indians and began to study them. It was during this time that she realized the injustice and cruelties to which they were subjected by the government.

She went to New York and worked three months in a library reading everything on the subject she could find.

When she was literally steeped in data she wrote as if inspired "A Century of Dishonor." This is a bold exposure of the wretched treatment by the government of the original inhabitants of America.

She sent a copy of this book to every member of Congress. It was the first effort of any one to improve the condition of the Indians of that day.

But this was not all. Mrs. Hunt met an old priest in San Diego, Calif., who told her the pathetic story of Ramona and Alessandro. He himself had married them. Mrs. Hunt immediately wrote the story which seems destined to live as a plea for the Indians.

Near the top of Cheyenne Mountain, close to Colorado Springs, as lonely as one of the scenes she described in her stories, is a single grave. Here lies Helen Hunt Jackson, a pioneer for the right of the Red Man. It was her especial wish to be buried in this simple, yet majestic way in the country she loved and which was the scene of the race she did so much to help.
